Parness reveals Lindgren probe details

LIVERMORE — City Manager Bill Parness this week adamantly insisted the city handled the Lindgren resignation professionally, "just the way it should be done."

He also acknowledged that the city council was given a full, detailed account of the background and allegations contained in a private investigator's report during the executive session held two days before the resignation.

Ex-Livermore police chief Ronald Lindgren appeared in Municipal Court here yesterday on charges of sex perversion, involving young boys.

Parness supports his claim by detailing the events leading up to the resignation on Jan. 18. He said the subject first came to his attention in December, when three captains and a lieutenant came to him with complaints about the chief's activities and irregularities in departmental procedure involving the chief.

"I thought of going to the city council at the time," Parness explained, "but these were serious charges and the chief had come highly recommended from Union City. He had a good record when he worked here before."

He hired a private investigator,

Claude Glenn, on the advice of two former city managers. Glenn worked nearly a month, interviewing 20 people, of which 15 were within the police department.

Parness emphasized that Glenn conducted his investigation away from the department, but had a letter of introduction signed by the city manager explaining he was hired by the city. He said that at no time did Glenn pass himself off as a management analyst.

Although the report detailed some allegations of mismanagement of a police undercover fund and handling of the counseling programs, the investigator could find no evidence to substantiate the allegations, according to Parness.

The investigator interviewed some youths, but there was no confirmation of illegal activity involving the chief, Parness said. The city manager indicated one of the youths later contacted Lindgren and told him he had been questioned by an investigator.

Parness said he kept the initial allegations brought by the officers to himself, but did tell Mayor Helen Tirsell that he had used city funds to hire a private investigator for a "horrendous problem" he faced. "I didn't feel I could reveal any more," he said, because of the highly sensitive nature of the situation. "I felt I owed it at least to the mayor to alert her, but I wasn't able to reveal it yet."

Once the investigator had given his report, however, Parness met with the mayor and gave her the details. Parness, Tirsell and Glenn met with a private attorney outside the

No plea on sex charges, hearing off

No plea was entered by former Livermore police chief Ronald Lindgren at his arraignment in municipal court yesterday on morals charges. Lindgren also waived preliminary hearing and his case was assigned to Hayward Superior Court March 1.

Dressed in a conservative green suit and flanked by attorneys Jack Noonan and Lincoln Mintz, Lindgren listened as Judge Bessie P. Dreihelb briefly read him his rights to jury trial and against self-incrimination.

His attorneys' discovery motion for the district attorney's evidence was granted and Noonan said later Lindgren would plea after they had seen the prosecution's material.

In Superior Court Dept. 30 Lindgren will again be charged with three felony counts of oral copulation with male teenagers and a fourth misdemeanor count of child molesting. His case will then be assigned to a trial court.

Juvenile involvement in the case, said Noonan, might mean the Superior Court trial is closed to the press and public but he would not speculate on the possibility.

Lindgren was formally charged Feb. 7, three weeks after resigning as police chief following a secret investigation ordered by Livermore city manager William Parness.

He has kept a low profile since then, arriving at court over an hour early yesterday morning and leaving quickly without comment to over a dozen photographers and reporters following him.

Hasseltine recall drive threatened for SRV

ALAMO — A petition to recall Supervisor Eric Hasseltine will start grinding through the mill of the county election department if the petition's instigator, Marge Hines, gets enough support from other disgruntled San Ramon Valley homeowners.

Hasseltine is Contra Costa County's fifth district supervisor. Hines owns a home in Alamo's Roundhill subdivision.

Hines has joined the ranks of some San Ramon Valley homeowners who contend Hasseltine is not good for the Valley as far as housing development planning goes. They have protested in writing and on TV Channel 7's six o'clock news the past few days. Their contention is that Hasseltine has been instrumental in getting developer's plans approved to construct houses on hillsides where potential landslide hazards exist.

Hines said she "took out a petition in December and notified Hasseltine."

"But I haven't carried on with it until last week," she added. "I plan to take it up again next Monday. I received an application to file from the county but it is still blank. First, I want to get more input from people who are also unhappy with Hasseltine."

"If I don't get support," she continued, "I will realize people don't care what happens to the Valley and their property."

Hines said there were three main reasons why she and other Roundhill residents were against having the eighth Roundhill housing "unit" constructed.

"One is we haven't seen any studies that indicate the construction site is not sandstone which would be hazardous to build on. We are concerned with the visual impact to the ridge line. And finally, Stone Valley Road is already much too crowded with traffic. We don't need 155 more houses up there."

Other protesting homeowners live in the Las Lomas-Vista Grande area and near the proposed Starview subdivision.

Hasseltine said if a recall petition was started, he "would take whatever avenues are available to me to make the public aware of my views."

He added he was "astounded" that people believe he manipulated

Holmdahl amasses $88,000

State Senator John Holmdahl (D-Oakland) enters a primary election fight in June with a campaign fund of $88,655 cash on hand so far.

His district includes most of the valley.

Some $41,979 was contributed between July 1 and Dec. 31 last year, the most recent campaign contribution reporting period under the Fair Political Practices Act.

Nearly all of the contributions went to the Holmdahl Dinner Committee and came from 216 firms or individuals.

Records show that most of the contributors are associated with any one of a number of interests including labor unions, convalescent homes, alcoholic beverage industry, insurance, realty and development.

By far the most active transmitter of funds to the Holmdahl Dinner Committee was Gene Rapp, owner of Rapp Health Facilities in Hayward.

John Holmdahl

Rapp brought contributions from 37 persons, including some on his staff at Rapp Health Facilities. Many others represented such places as Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital, Diablo Convalescent Hospital and employees of St. Michael Hospital.

Total contributions transmitted by Rapp amounted to $5,300.

Hayward attorney Jack Smith, former mayor of that city, sent Holmdahl 10 contributions worth $1,200. They included $200 from Geldermann Realty of Danville.

These crooks break into jail, make haul

PLEASANTON — Burglars breaking into jail?

Burglars actually did break into Santa Rita Jail property early yesterday and stole upwards of $1,500 worth of handtools, a jail spokesman said.

Burglars probably jumped a fence to enter jail property near the hospital area. Boltcutters were used to snap three padlocks allowing entry to some storage sheds containing the tools.

A cart storing 200 pounds of tools was pushed through the grounds of the abandoned hospital to a gate near Tassajara Road. The burglars cut the fence, loaded the tools onto a vehicle and departed, investigators believe.

The breached area is a lower security area than where prisoners are held, the spokesman emphasized. The jail grounds encompass more than 1,000 acres of land.

The tools are used by prisoners assigned to work crews. Because burglars went right to the tools, officials believe a former inmate is involved. There are no suspects.

Talk on Livermore housing

The Social Concerns Committee and Livermore Housing Authority will meet in a joint gathering tonight at Fifth Street School to discuss housing in the city.

The public is invited to attend the meeting, 7:30 p.m., when the two groups will look at alternatives to increase the supply of housing in Livermore, especially for senior citizens and low income families.

They also will study results of a recent Leahy Square survey and make recommendations on some of the problems pointed out in it.

Barbara Hempill, administrative assistant on city staff, will discuss priorities for the Multi-Service Center agencies which will be housed in the new facility.

Candidates speak today

The Chamber of Commerce will hold a candidates' luncheon at 11:45 a.m., Feb. 21 at the Holiday Inn.

Ron Massa, vice president of Chamber development, will be moderator. Each candidate will be allowed 3-4 minutes to answer each question.

The public is invited, and cost of luncheon will be $5 per person.

For reservations, call the Chamber at 447-1606, or come by the office at 1510 Holmes St.

Parents hit early school sex guides

PLEASANTON — Parent health advisory panels last night scored the "My Body is Mine" section of the "Albany Plan" for its alleged premature emphasis on anatomy, complex terminology and narrow value judgement stress.

A standing room only audience of 55 at the Amador-Pleasanton district schools offices listened as the committee discussed objectives listed in the Albany Plan, starting with kindergarten and going through eighth grade.

At the completion of the hour and 45 minute review audience members submitted questions to the group chaired by Charlotte Angel, district nurse.

The review of the plan is part of writing a complete health curriculum that would be implemented in September.

The other two phases of the Albany Plan are labeled "My Emotions are Mine" and "My Environment is Mine."

But the section reviewed last night had sparked great concern amongst parents who felt, in part, that value judgements were being brought into play in family life or "sex education."

Several objected to the identification of private parts at the kindergarten level.

Chowchilla sentence stays — defense

OAKLAND (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Chowchilla mass abduction case said Wednesday they believed the trial judge has decided to impose the mandatory sentence of life in prison without possibility of parole for the three admitted kidnappers.

Lester Gendron, the Madera County public defender who is representing James Schoenfeld, 26, said outside the courtroom at the noon recess that he had reversed his plan to put his client on the witness stand.

"There is no sense in it because the judge has already made up his mind," Gendron said as the pre-sentencing hearing neared its end.

Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan, during an exchange earlier in the day with defense attorney Edward Merrill, said he believed he had no authority to modify the compulsory sentence and indicated he wasn't inclined to rule the statute unconstitutional.

Merrill, who represents Richard Schoenfeld, 23, said outside the courtroom that he interpreted the judge's comments as an indication that the judge already had decided what he would do.

"I think the judge is not inclined to go along with our argument on the constitutional issue and he probably feels he has no authority to modify the sentence," Merrill said.

Herbert Yanowitz, counsel for Fred Woods, 26, had no comment.

The three defendants pleaded guilty last year to kidnapping 26 Chowchilla schoolchildren and their bus driver at gunpoint on July 15, 1976 and imprisoning them in a buried moving van at a rock quarry owned by the Woods family. The captives dug their way out the next day.

In a non-jury trial, Deegan found the trio guilty last December of causing bodily harm to three of the young hostages, a verdict that carries a mandatory sentence of no parole in California.

Woman bits police clerk

LIVERMORE — A 29-year-old Livermore woman arrested for alleged drunken driving was also booked on suspicion of battery and resisting police orders when she reportedly bit a clerk on the leg and repeatedly struck an officer, police reported.

According to police reports, Janis Renee Powers of 5863 Crestmont Ave. was arrested on Junction Avenue about 12:20 a.m. Monday for suspected drunken driving.

Police said Powers refused to answer questions during booking and threw her shoes at Officer Dave Hollander. While walking down a hallway at the police station, the suspect struck Hollander several times in the right thigh, officers said.

The woman fell to the ground, police said, grabbed a clerk and bit her leg, ruining $27 worth of clothing.

LIVERMORE — Burglars entered an open window of a Vancouver Street residence Monday and stole $1,020 in jewelry, police reported.

The residents returned home and found an outdoor chair placed under a partially open bathroom window. The window screen had been removed.

Missing items include four pocket watches, a wristwatch and a silver pen and pencil set. There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — Tools valued at $600 were stolen from a Via Granada residence Sunday in a six-minute period, police reported.

The resident said his large garage door had been left open only six minutes earlier that day. A toolbox containing the tools was later discovered missing.

Many of the tools were engraved with the initials "A.S." There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — Burglars took advantage of two unlocked doors to take $260 in valuables from a Findlay Road residence last week, police reported.

Officers said both the large garage door and an interior access door were left unlocked. Missing items include a cassette recorder, pendant watch, down jacket and a man's watch. There are no clues.

Nineteen firms or persons identified as connected to realty or development contributed a total of $4,850.

Other major union donors were the California Teamsters at $1,000 (their Western Conference also gave $200) and Local 115 of the International Association of Machinists and Auto Workers at $700.

Insurance companies contributed $2,500. Mostly they were Alameda County agencies at $100 and $200. The Fund for Insurance Education gave $1,000 and the Life Insurance Political Action Committee contributed $500.

The alcoholic beverage industry contributed $2,850.

Biggest donor was the Beer Wholesalers with $1,000. E&J Gallo gave $200, Warehouse Wines and Spirits $500, and California

Liquor Retailers $500.

Parness talks about Lindgren city "because we didn't want to reveal it to anyone internally yet."

The attorney, a former city attorney of Berkeley, advised them what they should do, Parness said.

They gave copies of the detailed report to the city council during the executive session on Monday, Jan. 16, and the council members listened to the taped interviews supplied by the investigator, Parness said. He said the council agreed unanimously that action had to be taken.

Parness met the next day with the police chief and agreed to give him until 9 a.m. on Wednesday to reach a decision.

Parness pointed out that, contrary to previous reports, Tirsell was not in the room during the Jan. 18 talk with Lindgren. He said she waited in the outer office. None of the council was invited, and Tirsell showed up on her own. John Staley, too, came on his own just before the resignation announcement was made, Parness said.

Jack Noonan, a close friend of Lindgren, came uninvited and city attorney Gary Reiners joined the meeting when Noonan arrived.

Parness defended his action of not calling the district attorney's office earlier by saying the officers who first approached him urged him not to because there were no known illegalities and it was an internal problem.

However, the day after the resignation Parness and Tirsell agreed it was appropriate to contact the district attorney since he had expressed an interest in the case. District Attorney Lowell Jensen said he would send an investigator out the next day.

Parness said just before the investigator arrived that Friday morning he received word from the police department that a person "with knowledge of an overt illegal act involving the chief" had given taped testimony that supposedly substantiated the allegations. He said the person came forward only after hearing the police chief was no longer in office.

Parness and the city attorney insisted they took the stand of announcing only "management problems" as reason for the resignation because they were obligated not to allege "or make known the allegations that could harm a person."

Since they had no solid evidence, the city manager pointed out, "If we'd gone into it explaining part of the reason for his resignation was the allegations we might have been open for a suit to get his job back."

Parness sighed and concluded, "My conscience is completely clear. We handled it professionally, just the way it should be done."

Raymond on top issues

DUBLIN — Supervisor Valerie Raymond covered a wide range of subjects during her speech yesterday at a Dublin Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting at Dublin Corral.

She is Alameda County's first district supervisor. Her speech included the Jarvis property tax relief initiative, 1-580 restricted lanes, Dublin incorporation, Stoneridge shopping center and the Livermore Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) pipeline.

Although she agreed that relief was needed from escalating property taxes, she said "the Jarvis initiative is a drastic measure that would have drastic consequences as far as county services are concerned."

She pointed out the Jarvis measure would entail a two-third cut in revenues going toward funding county services.

"I agree the operation of county services has room to improve as far as efficiency goes, but the services that would have to be cut are the very ones people would least like to see cut."

She named police, fire protection, social services, schools and similar services as being the most likely to feel the ax.

Regarding the 1-580 diamond lanes, she said the current restrictions don't really do much as far as saving time for commuters. Some studies showed a two minute time slash, she added.

"However, the rest of the board of supervisors and I decided if a fuss was raised now about the diamond lanes it could jeopardize chances for the rest of the widening project."

As far as Dublin's proposed incorporation, Raymond reiterated she and other supervisors wanted a more inclusive feasibility study made than has been proposed so far.

She also stressed the importance of studying alternatives to incorporation; especially since the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) had indicated Dublin was within Pleasanton's sphere of influence. The latter means LAFCO favors annexation to Pleasanton.

Raymond pointed out that Stoneridge Shopping Center could have a direct negative effect on Dublin's tax base. If that proved to be the case, she added, it might not be economically feasible for Dublin to incorporate.

Raymond said she was not particularly happy about the LAVWMA pipeline.

"But so far I see no feasible alternative."

planning approvals. This remark was in protest to some residents' allegations that Hasseltine hand-picked the newly formed San Ramon Valley Planning Commission.

"If I wanted to pack the commission, I would have done something different. I wouldn't have helped formed a commission in the first place if I had personally wanted control," Hasseltine said.

"My feeling at this point in time is that never in the history of Contra Costa County have residents had a greater opportunity to present their views to a local level of authority like the new planning commission."

He said it stood to reason he had some friends on the commission since he lived and campaigned in the fifth district which includes Alamo, Danville and San Ramon.

Hasseltine said the Starview development, 15 single family dwellings, had not received final approval. He said he had asked for more detailed soil analysis before giving an official nod.

"And if half of what near-by homeowners say is true, the development won't be approved."

He added no approval was given on any subdivision without careful study of geological and engineering reports. He admitted there was sometimes a conflict between county geology reports and those of independently hired geologists.

"In that case, we have to carefully weigh all viewpoints."

Hasseltine said homeowner appeals were turned down if careful study by supervisors deemed the appeals unwarranted.

Bound by law, says judge

During the morning session, the judge said there was "no discretion of any kind vested in the trial judge" to alter the sentence. "I am bound by the law," Deegan added.

Merrill said the hearing was legally necessary to explore the possibility of any mitigating circumstances. "We are putting it on the record here because we can't put it on the record when we appeal this matter to higher courts," he said.

Merrill argued that sentencing Richard to prison with no possibility of parole constituted cruel and unusual punishment and was disproportionate to the crime.

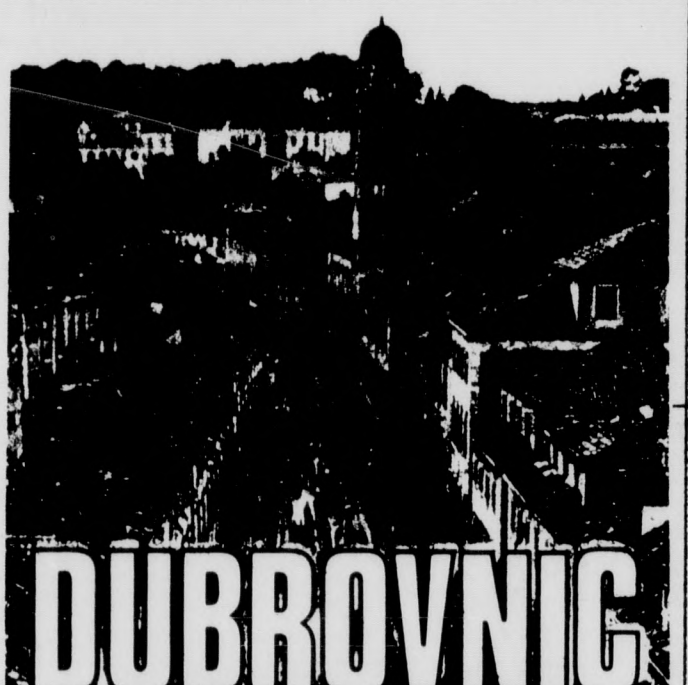

In futile attempts to have expert witnesses testify about prison conditions, Merrill told the judge that the younger Schoenfeld, described by a probation officer as "immature and naive," was unprepared for the physical abuse and extortion he said was prevalent in California's maximum security lock-ups.

The judge agreed with prosecution objections that testimony about what might happen to the men in prison was speculative and irrelevant.

Earlier in the day, Yanowitz called several close friends of the Woods family to testify about his good behavior prior to the incident.

They described him as a man who had "immature judgement" and was "very naive."

One witness, Jewel Smaus, said young Woods sometimes felt frustrated in trying to live up to his parents' high standards.

"Enjoying Business Built by Reputation"

Judge William Gale draws class winners in "Win an Author For a Day" as Perry Lusby, Scholastic Magazines Western Distribution Center manager, holds box.

Arroyo Seco pupils win author's visit

Those first graders and their teacher at Arroyo Seco School in Livermore that you may have seen kind of "floating" around campus have a great reason for feeling that way.

Gloria Conover and her young charges were picked as one of three classes in 20 western states in the "Win An Author For a Day" sweepstakes.

The drawing was held Wednesday at Scholastic Magazines Western Distribution Center in Pleasanton with Judge William

Gale and Perry Lusby, center manager, doing the honors. Similar drawings were held at Scholastic's offices in Jefferson City, Mo. and Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. A total of 10 winners were to be selected.

Judge Gale drew three winners from the 3,000 entries submitted.

Mrs. Conover and her Arroyo Seco School first graders will spend a day with the author of their choice. She was not available late yesterday to determine what author the class had selected.

Each author will come with fascinating, "fun filled" things to do. The day will conclude with a reception and press party for the author, Mrs. Conover and her special invited guests.

A specific date has not been set. Mrs. Conover previously taught at Almond School in Livermore.

Bob Hill is principal at Arroyo Seco School.

The sweepstakes is a promotion of Scholastic Magazines.

Amador Valley trustees seeking proficiency standards' revaluation

Trustees of the Amador Valley Joint High School District, expressing some consternation at seemingly inconsistent results, have asked district staff for more precise data in the development of proficiency standards.

As mandated by Assembly Bill 65, school districts must have proficiency standards for elementary grades by 1979-80 and secondary schools by 1978-79. The law reads that any students not meeting those standards implemented by the districts by June of 1980 will not receive a diploma.

Trustees felt, after hearing a status report on the standards from Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for instruction, that discrepancies in the tests existed.

Dorothy Dow, of Dublin High's mathematics department, noted how a math test last year was interrupted by a power outage.

Sizable differences in scoring between Amador, Dublin and Foothill on some tests were also noted by trustees.

School boards, with involvement of parents, administrators, teachers and students, must adopt alternative means for pupils to complete the prescribed course of study mandated in existing law. This must be done by Jan. 1, 1979.

As a followup for mathematics, district staff members will meet with feeder school teachers from Murray, Pleasanton and Sunol Glen. Similar meetings have already been held in the language arts area.

In other business, the board approved a resolution asking a moratorium on education legislation. The bill was written by Dennis Mangers.

Trustees approved a trailer site at Foothill High School. A watchman will live in the trailer as a deterrent to vandalism and break-ins. The board learned that there have been many break-ins in recent months.

Estimated cost of providing utilities to the trailer is $3,000.

Placement of trailers with guards in residence at Amador and Dublin have resulted in a significant decline in vandalism and break-ins, according to the district.

'Freebies' cut seen

Little change in '78 fair prices

Fair and racing grandstand prices for the 1978 Alameda County Fair will be largely unchanged, but an attempt to drastically cut the number of "freebies" given out may still be open to question.

Fair directors Monday night, after approving the admission price list, got into a brief but heated discussion on whether passes should be cut.

William Gale contended

too many were being given out. New director Floyd Hibbitts, citing a report that showed the local fair had a very low percentage of passes given out compared to others, said he would be opposed to further cutting the list.

Another director felt giving out of a reasonable number stimulated not only attendance but spending at the fair.

Directors resultingly accepted the admission price list for 1978 and took no action to slice the "freebies" list.

Fair admission prices will be $2 for adults, 50 cents for children (with an age change from 15 to 12), $1.50 advance sale, with opening and closing Sundays to be half-price.

There will be Kids Days on the two Thursdays of the Fair and Senior Citizens' Days on two Wednesdays, the latter being an increase of one.

The grandstand prices will be $1.50 for general admission, $1.50 plus general admission for reserved seats, and $2 plus general admission for box seats.

The same prices were reestablished for special days — ladies, senior citizens and racers' delight.

Dublin youth struck by shotgun pellets

Leshner News Bureau
SAN RAMON — A Dublin youth was struck in the arm and buttocks Tuesday by shotgun pellets, believed fired by a man shooting geese at the San Ramon National Golf Club.

Jeff Easkey, 15, of 7256 Lon Court, told sheriff's deputies he and a friend saw a fire on the golf course and went to investigate.

He heard about seven shots and saw pellets spraying the duck pond and then felt the pellets hit him, he said.

He saw the suspect get into a golf cart and drive off.

Other witnesses said the suspect was shooting the geese and offered one witness a dead goose if he would swim out and retrieve five from the pond.

The suspect was described as a white man about 30, standing 5-foot-10 and weighing approximately 165 pounds.

Alameda County PTA members honor birthday

At a recent meeting at Goodman's Hall in Oakland, members of the 16th District PTA celebrated the 81st birthday of the National PTA and the 51st anniversary of 16th district.

Speaker for the evening was Robert Blackburn, former assistant superintendent of the Oakland Unified School District and now a professor at Cal Berkeley.

The program also included several piano selections by Mark Anderson, a freshman at Amador Valley to Gilbert Yee, a fifth grade teacher at Niles Elementary School in Fremont. Yee had been named the California State Teacher of the Year for his work with students, especially in the fields of music, science and natural history. He is also active in his church; has been a member of the YMCA task force and a Y-Indian Guide leader; a Webelos leader for the Boy Scouts and a volunteer star gaze lecturer for the Camp Fire Girls.

Yee has been scholarship chairman and treasurer for the South Bay Chinese Club and is a member of the Tri-City Ecology Committee and of the Niles-Hacienda PTA.

It was announced that a donation had been forwarded to the State PTA Honorary Service Award Scholarship Fund in memory of two former 16th District presidents who passed away in the last year. They are Mrs. M.C. Godfrey, president from 1941-43 and Mrs. L. Cavanaugh, president from 1954-56.

Median okay
in Livermore

LIVERMORE — The city council approved the proposed P Street median with minimal discussion Tuesday night.

The staff report indicated both the developer and major tenants of the Arcade Shopping Center agreed that a traffic island was needed on P Street between Railroad Avenue and First Street for traffic safety and capacity consideration.

The proposed median island will offer one opening opposite the Safeway driveway.

Councilman Dale Turner also suggested that a different traffic pattern perhaps be used at the Safeway entrance where traffic frequently backs up as cars wait for a parking space immediately to the left of the driveway. City staff said the pattern would be considered.

Vandalism workshop tonight

DUBLIN — Tonight the Community Workshop on Vandalism at Shannon Community Center will be held beginning at 7 p.m.

The Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD) is sponsoring the workshop which is free and open to the general public.

The workshop will include a brief film, a presentation by Hotline Inc., and round table discussions. Representatives from schools, law enforcement agencies plus teenagers and other interested individuals will be participating in the workshop.

Bill Gray, founder of Youth Values Program in Los Angeles, will be attending. He will discuss his program the following day at 1 p.m. at Shannon Community Center.

Planning post filled

LIVERMORE — Neil Riley will complete the term on the planning commission vacated recently when Jim Sadler moved out of town.

Riley was interviewed by the city council Tuesday night and was named to the appointment during the council meeting. Riley, 44, is a 14-year resident of Livermore, is married and has two children.

He owns the Flying Machines, and previously served on the Manpower Advisory Council of the Alameda County Training and Employment Board.

Riley was the only applicant for the position after Orlando J. O'Neil withdrew his nomination at the last minute. He gave no reason for the withdrawal.

Riley previously applied for the planning commission, when he was appointed to the Manpower Advisory Council. Sadler's term expires in October, 1979.

Job opening

PLEASANTON — The city is looking for a resident here who is economically disadvantaged and is interested in earning $827 a month as a maintenance carpenter/helper.

The position open is under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), thus applicants can't be now employed in another job. Those interested in applying for CETA positions should first clear their eligibility with the employment development department at 1783 Barcelona, Livermore. The city's personnel office in the Civic Center on Bernal Avenue will be taking the applications once an individual is cleared.

City questions downtown condo

Honest art

Art Bailey didn't hesitate when he found a wallet containing $205 at the "Champ Night" wrestling event last Friday at East Avenue School in Livermore. Art turned it over to his physical education teacher, who found the owner. The grateful owner gave young Art a $10 reward. Why did he turn in the wallet? Art, who was class champion in his physical education class but didn't participate in the event that night, smiled shyly and shrugged. "I want to be honest," he answered simply. Art said his parents were happy about his action. And the $10? "I'm going to buy a pair of roller skates," said the 14-year-old eighth grader happily. (Times photo by Connie Rux)

LIVERMORE — Can a small seven-unit condominium development maintain its open areas under a Homeowners' Association effectively without exorbitant monthly fees? And would such a unit fit into a residential neighborhood?

The two questions surfaced in a discussion Tuesday night at the city council meeting where council members were asked to approve the tentative tract for the development on Seventh Street between East Avenue and McLeod Street.

The condominiums' expected to sell at about $45,000, are listed under the general plan as moderate income housing. Councilman John Staley argued that his experience as a lawyer with homeowner associations seemed to indicate maintenance would become a problem.

For such a small development, Staley said, the homeowners' dues would be so costly that it would not keep the condominiums in the medium income range.

"This thing will be built, be subdivided, and problems will crop up within a year," he told the other council members. "I don't think condominium units of this small size can succeed economically. You need at least 50 units to economically maintain open areas in a homeowners' association."

He said a small development could survive under single ownership, but not with seven separate ownerships and an eighth held by the homeowners' association.

The council agreed that Staley had a valid concern, but felt his argument did not apply to the tract approval before them. Staley said it was a policy matter "and we have no policy on maintenance."

A resident behind the proposed condominiums, Kay Parra, also objected to the development plan because of the location of the parking garages directly behind her house. "Would you want those garages jammed up against your bedroom windows?" she heatedly asked the council.

The issue was continued to Feb. 27.

City hall may cost more

LIVERMORE — The apparent low bid for construction of the new city hall came in 4.4 per cent higher than the architect's construction estimate of $1,373,109.

The bid, submitted by Wallace Webb, Hayward, was $1,434,000, and was lower than three other bids. However, assistant city manager Ed Schilling said the city was very pleased with the bids because all four were within a 7.4 range of each other.

However, the city only has $177,000 available from the sale of two surplus city properties to go toward the new facility which will be built on top of the police department on Pacific Avenue.

The city is taking three years of federal revenue-sharing funds to pay for the city hall, scheduled for completion some time early in 1979.

The bids broke down costs for various alternative additions to the basic structure, which can be trimmed to cut the expense, Schilling said. One possible alternative that could be dropped is $83,976 for parking lot and entry drive. Schilling said the loss of the parking lot would be desirable in environmental terms, but emphasized that any cuts would come from the city council after careful study.

Other alternatives that are added to the total bill include $2,503 for a change in the council chamber ceiling structure and $3,443 for acoustic wall coverings.

TV spot makes her a commercial success

Lights. Camera. Action. And what do you know, that is really the way it happens. At least according to Linda Thorvund from Dublin's Avco Finance office.

Linda can be seen on television across the country saying her bit for Avco Finance. She was one of a dozen Avco employees chosen to tell her feelings about the company on film.

She first saw herself on the tube thanks to a tip from her aunt in Texas. The Avco spot was being shown on network TV so her aunt in Texas grated to the U.S. from Norway called to see if they might be related. Linda put them in contact with her father-in-law whose parents came from Norway and they are checking to see if they might be related.

It was a bit of a shock to get the call from a Thorvund in the East because, said Linda, it was thought that her husband's father, her husband and his brother were absolutely the only Thorvunds in the country.

Making the commercial was a learning experience in itself, said Linda. For starters, there was no script. Each Avco employee was just asked to say what he wanted about the company. They were told to speak in complete sentences, but other than that, "there was no coaching at all," said Linda.

The commercial shows six employees talking about the company with their names and office locations printed on the screen while they talk. Linda was pleasantly surprised to see that what she looks like on television is what she looks like in person.

Her only complaint "is that the segment they picked makes me look like I was nervous. I didn't smile and my customers know I smile a lot."

She was delighted with the star treatment she received while filming the commercial in Newport Beach, Calif. The evening before the taping, all the employees in the commercial were hosted at a party attended by all the company executives.

The day they filmed, Linda recalled, "We had a catered lunch on the set." And, although her first venture into television may not launch her into a multi-million dollar film career, she will receive about $1500 for her effort.

"In order to go on film at all, we had to join the union," said Linda, adding that she had no idea what union she now belongs to.

But, she has become a star in at least her boy eyes. "To them I'm a celebrity like the Six Million Dollar Man. I'm on TV and they don't care if it's in a commercial."

Linda has also learned something of the impact of television advertising. "I've gotten called from customers who haven't paid in months just to say they saw me on TV."

She has also become less suspect of commercials. "Yes, I've got to admit that those milk commercials probably use real people. I know my words were ad lib."

"I don't think I'd like it all the time, I'm too family oriented. But, I'd like to do it again for another week," explained the office manager turned television actress turned office manager.

Museum curator

Preserving county lore on a shoestring

Things are rapidly changing, and history becomes important for the perspective it gives us, says Dave Davis, the curator of the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Museum at the Pleasanton Fairgrounds.

He sees the museum as fulfilling that need — if the county were willing to spend the necessary money and apply the energy needed to compile a county history, create new exhibits and expand the educational resources of the museum.

Davis says there are lots of directions in which the museum could go at this point, but he sees a concentrated effort to compile a county history as being of the greatest importance.

Although, says Davis, there are local organizations looking into local histories, there is no one in the county investigating county history. He believes the county could spend the money to have such a study done. Information would have to be gathered from all over the state.

Of his ideas for the future development of the museum, Davis says, "We'd like to move to a larger building, so there would be more space for collections and exhibits."

He would like to see permanent exhibits, with certain sections of the museum for specific eras of the county's past.

Davis says the trend in museums is one of trying to create a sort of stylized environment. It doesn't rely on having only artifacts, but an environment is created that gives a greater feeling and sense of history.

Museums think of themselves as educational institutions, and rightly so, says Davis.

In this regard, he thinks this museum has done a good job with its traveling exhibit programs to local schools.

Volunteers are seen by Davis as necessary for the development of the museum. He would like to create a volunteer position of Curator of Costumes. He also sees other possible positions opening in the future, probably filled with volunteers who have the expertise needed to do the work.

The local museum has the nucleus of a good museum, says Davis, in its complete blacksmith shop and wine press and cooper (barrel-making) shop.

Artifact donations are important, says the curator, but the artifacts must be historically significant. He notes they don't need any 1920s vintage washing machines.

While the general trend in museums is to let people get the feeling for the past by letting them interact with the exhibits, not now being done here. For instance, people are not now allowed to handle the blacksmith tools.

The next exhibit to be developed for this museum, says Davis, is of costumes as they relate to the county's history. "We have some nice costumes of the 1910 era, and we get a lot of things on loan," says Davis. However, he thinks it would be nice for the museum to own the exhibits because it cost about $10,000 to create a permanent exhibit, and in that case "you don't want things to be yanked out." Gifts to the museum are tax deductible.

Financially speaking, Dave considers the $10,000 per year museum budget to be a "pittance." He says it costs about $12 per square foot for an exhibit.

Davis is enthusiastic about an audio-visual history of Alameda County, and he estimates it would cost at least $5000. It would include an oral history project and would require the services of a professional photographer, as well as someone to do graphic research in local libraries and in San Francisco Museum's special collections room, as well as a consultant and someone to make professional recordings of oral interpretations of history, with music.

He also envisions a trading post — gift shop at the museum, staffed by volunteers, a recreation of a trading post of gold rush days, because he says that would be an authentic situation for this area as the '49ers came through here to be outfitted on their way to the gold fields.

With a couple of volunteers it could be open weekends, and serve as a gift shop, as well, with antique reproductions. Davis says there will be a need for teacher-docents to give talks and slide shows to schools, and to accompany traveling exhibits. A decent coordinator will also be needed.

Other possibilities for exhibits might include the interior of an adobe hacienda and an Indian exhibit, and perhaps a reproduction of a hotel lobby of an old time hotel.

Dave says that people are interested in the past because things are changing so rapidly. "History gives us a perspective, to give dimension to our own existence. To get where we are today, decades of human effort went into it," but Dave says with hard work, a great deal might be done with our local museum, much research is necessary, and a good understanding of the geographical locality.

Much research into the county history to develop a storyline for the county, with museum exhibits geared to that storyline, are what the new museum curator sees as necessary, to breathe new life into our county museum.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband seems to get angry with me whenever I get a cold or feel ill. It's almost as if he blames me. This causes a lot of tension in the family, as you can imagine, and I think it makes my condition worse. He keeps reminding me that he never gets sick, that he never allows himself to catch anything. Actually, this isn't true, but it pleases him to think it is. When he's sick, he's a terrible patient and he is even harder on himself than he is on me. V.G.

DEAR V.G.: Unfortunately, some men have been brought up to feel that any sickness is a sign of weakness, so with this view, it isn't surprising that they will go to great lengths to deny pain. This can be dangerous because pain, or even a runny nose, is a warning to take it easy, slow down, and give yourself a little tender, living care. Many women were taught in childhood to coddle themselves. In other words, we often find two extremes in marriage. Both are damaging. There's no doubt that tension and anxiety make most illnesses worse. You might tell your husband about the results of some studies. Dr. Sylvia Reed conducted an experiment in London with patients inoculated with cold viruses. She found that mental attitude can affect physical symptoms and that stress actually makes symptoms worse.

The late Dr. David Kissen, in a Glasgow chest clinic, found a link between tuberculosis and "deprivation of affection or broken love link." Another study by five Australian doctors found that bereavement can reduce the body's natural defenses against infection.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We have a new baby at our house. It's my first although my husband has three grown children by a previous marriage. He kids me, and sometimes hurts my feelings, because I spend so much time with my baby and talk to him. I guess I bore my husband but it means so much to me because I can see that my baby responds even though my husband thinks it silly. I think he would just like to shut the nursery and have the baby wake up one day fully grown. What can I do to help him understand how I feel, or should I change. Y.W.

DEAR Y.W.: If your husband thinks it's foolish to cuddle and talk to a newborn child, he's wrong and he's the one who should change his attitudes. Your instincts are completely right in this case so don't try to change them to suit your husband's whims.

According to Yale's Dr. Edmund Crelin, touching, cuddling and talking to newborn infants are necessary to stimulate and develop the child's brain. The sound of human voices and human touch stimulate growth links between the brain cells. Dr. Crelin feels parents should expose their babies to a lot of handling, light and sound.

Research has shown that there are critical times when the growth of the nerve cell branches depends on stimuli from the surface of the body and sense organs, such as the ear, eye, nose and tongue. If infants aren't stimulated enough it can retard the development of the nerve cell connections.

You might tell your husband that studies have shown that when mother respond quickly and give their infants attention, the babies turn out to be more contented, less anxious and demanding later on. Unfortunately, some husbands become jealous and resent the attention the mother pays the child.

HEATHCLIFF

"PERHAPS WE CAN SETTLE OUT OF COURT?"

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor had some blood work done on me. He told me I was anemic and also had a very low blood count. Now he wants to do some X rays of me. Can you explain the symptoms of anemia and low blood count. What medication should he prescribe for me?

DEAR READER — Commonly, an anemia is manifested by a decrease in red blood cells (your blood count) or a decrease in iron-containing pigment (hemoglobin) in the red blood cells and sometimes both.

Just keep in mind the red blood cells carry oxygen to your cells and remove carbon dioxide. If you are low in hemoglobin or red blood cells this compromises the capacity of your blood to carry oxygen. In modest amounts you might not notice any symptoms of this at all. As the anemia gets worse, you will first notice a decreased exercise capacity and eventually begin to experience fatigue at rest. That is the basis for the well-known TV commercials about "tired blood" from lack of iron. I hasten to add that the reason most people have fatigue or feel tired has nothing to do with anemia or how much iron you have. There are a multitude of reasons for being tired.

An anemia is a finding, similar to observing a person has a fever. The next step is in finding out what causes it. In some instances it is from lack of iron in the diet or losing more iron from the body than you get in your food. This is particularly apt to occur to women in the childbearing age. They need about twice as much iron as other people. The requirements for iron may also be increased during pregnancy because iron must be used to form hemoglobin for the developing baby's blood.

It is less well recognized that regular physical activity, such as occurs in a vigorous athlete in training, may lead to a loss of iron in sweat and require a greater intake of iron to prevent an accumulative loss of iron.

Loss of blood and consequently loss of iron can induce an anemia. This may occur with bleeding from the digestive tract. An anemia may occur because of unrecognized cancer. Such problems are one reason why your doctor wants to make X rays of you. He is trying to find out WHY you are anemic.

Excessive destruction of red blood cells may result in an anemia. The problem that affects blacks, sickle cell anemia, is an example here. The rapid destruction of red blood cells from any cause beyond the body's ability to replace them can lead to "hemolytic anemia."

Then you can have a failure of your body to produce enough red blood cells. This can be from an inactive bone marrow for many reasons, including pernicious anemia from a lack of vitamin B-12.

You need to find out what causes the anemia before you can treat it. In one case the treatment may be giving vitamin B-12 because of pernicious anemia. In another case it may be giving iron because of iron deficiency. In still another case the proper form of treatment may be elimination of bleeding from a disease in the digestive system.

Take time this coming year to add to your knowledge by studying subjects that you find pleasurable. Your enjoyable pursuit could take a profitable turn.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A witty antagonist may try to put down someone you like in front of mutual friends today. Step forward in his defense should he appear overmatched.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have the unique ability today to turn "nothing" situations into something beneficial. Don't ignore small opportunities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Say what needs to be said today, not what you think a friend might like to hear. Sincerely serves, evasion solves nothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An associate who occasionally succeeds with crafty tactics is no match for you today. You'll see through his guile and fail him.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your ability to arouse the spirit of cooperation is your greatest asset today. What you can't cut alone can be achieved with enthusiastic allies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Where you are motivated by selflessness, your efforts will be amazingly effective today.

Be a giver, not a taker.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be able to adapt yourself with ease today even in unfamiliar groups. One who lacks this talent will eye you with envy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) By overcoming innate uncertainties and meeting challenges head on, substantial advantages can be gained today. Careerwise. Don't be timid.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may become involved in an incident today where you'll be tempted to respond to pettiness, with pettiness, but you'll rise above it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In negotiating commercial matters you may feel intimidated today. You shouldn't. It would be a mistake to bargain from weakness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A pleasant surprise may be in store today, when you learn of the compliments paid you by an associate whom you felt didn't respect you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Performance, not appearance, is what really counts today. If your endeavors are honest and productive, don't fear what others may think.

against losing two trump tricks unless it turned out to be an impossibility, as it was in this instance.

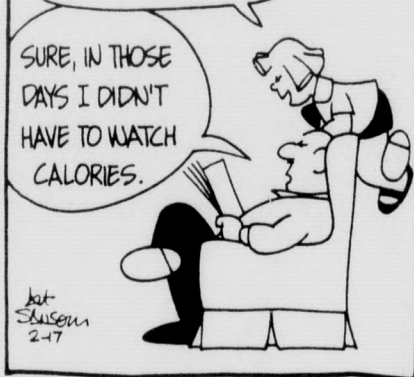

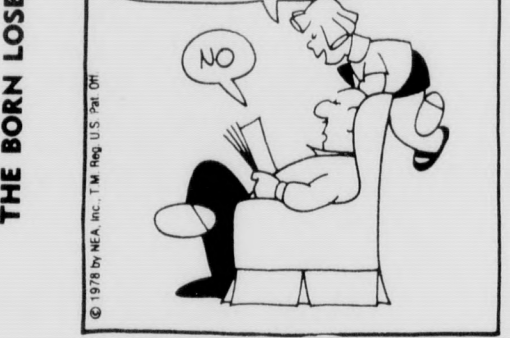

West took his two spades and led hearts. Eventually, it was up to the student to decide which way he should finesse for the queen of clubs. He guessed right and turned happily to the Professor to ask, "Good play! Wasn't it?"

"Fairly good play," replied the Professor. "You did take the safety play in trumps, but you wound up having to guess about the queen of clubs. Correct play would have eliminated the club guess."

What the Professor meant was that the student was right for the first two tricks. But at tricks 3, 4 and 5 he should have cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and then ruffed the last diamond.

The next play would be the low heart. Either opponent could win, but would have to lead a club to take South's finesse for him, give South a ruff and discard or sacrifice a trump trick.

Off-the-board challenger

Spinks splits Ali from crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Leon Spinks, turning tiger in the final rounds, scored a shocking upset Wednesday night with a split-decision victory over Muhammad Ali to become the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Spinks, the 24-year-old ex-Marine with just seven previous pro fights, refused to run out of gas. In an exciting 15th round he landed a left-right to the head at the bell that sent Ali stumbling back to his corner.

Ali's face was a mask of pain and weariness.

At the final bell, Spinks' seconds jumped into the ring and began celebrating.

Judge Art Lurie, the first scorer announced, had it 143-142 for Ali. But the other two judges voted for Spinks — Howard Buck 144-141 and Lou Tabat 145-140.

The Associated Press scored it 143-142 for Ali, but there was no question that Ali was a beaten man at the end.

The 36-year-old Ali, conserving his strength and picking his spots with head punches, seemed to be in command after 10 rounds.

But Spinks would not be denied boxing's most shocking upset since Ali won the title from Sonny Liston in seven rounds Feb. 25, 1964.

In the 13th round, Spinks scored with a left-right to the head and, as Ali visibly tired, the challenger landed several other good lefts.

In the 14th, Ali, his left eye swelling, tried to stem the tide with his famous jab. But Spinks kept coming — and hurt Ali with a vicious left hook midway in the round. He followed it

Spinks clearly outpunched the champion in that exchange.

As the 15th round opened, Spinks' followers in a crowd of 5,298 at the Hilton Pavilion were standing and cheering and there were some worried looks in the Ali corner.

The corner had reason to be worried.

Ali fought the 15th round in furious fashion. But this time it was the fury of a 36-year-old man, and it paled alongside the fury of a 24-year-old who had nothing to lose and everything to gain.

And he gained it all.

In that thrilling 15th, both fighters took turns rocking one another with right hands and hooks. Ali got in three good hooks and a right early in the round, but Spinks kept up the pressure and although he almost fell from apparent exhaustion, he outpunched the champ in the final 30 seconds and hurt him with a thunderous hook just at the bell.

The gap-toothed Spinks was such an underdog that the Nevada bookmakers would not make a betting line, but the smart-money guys were wrong this time.

At a press conference Tuesday in which Ali ended two months of public silence, he said, "The only thing that makes this a big fight is his age and my age."

Of course, he was right — as he has been so many times in the past.

Spinks, who weighed only 197½ pounds to Ali's 224½ and gave away four inches in reach and years of experience, maintained in the days leading up to the fight that none of this bothered him. "I'm in condition," he said. "I can go the whole 15 smokin' — not like Joe Frazier but like Leon Spinks."

Smokin' like Leon Spinks made the St. Louis native the new and most professionally inexperienced heavyweight champion in history. Only one man ever fought for the title with fewer pro fights. That was Pete Radamacher, who was stopped in six rounds by Floyd Patterson in 1957 in what was Radamacher's pro debut.

Spinks opened as he promised, applying pressure, and had a clear edge in the first few rounds. The fight appeared to be even after eight, then Ali seemed to take control, scoring well with jabs, hooks and occasional rights.

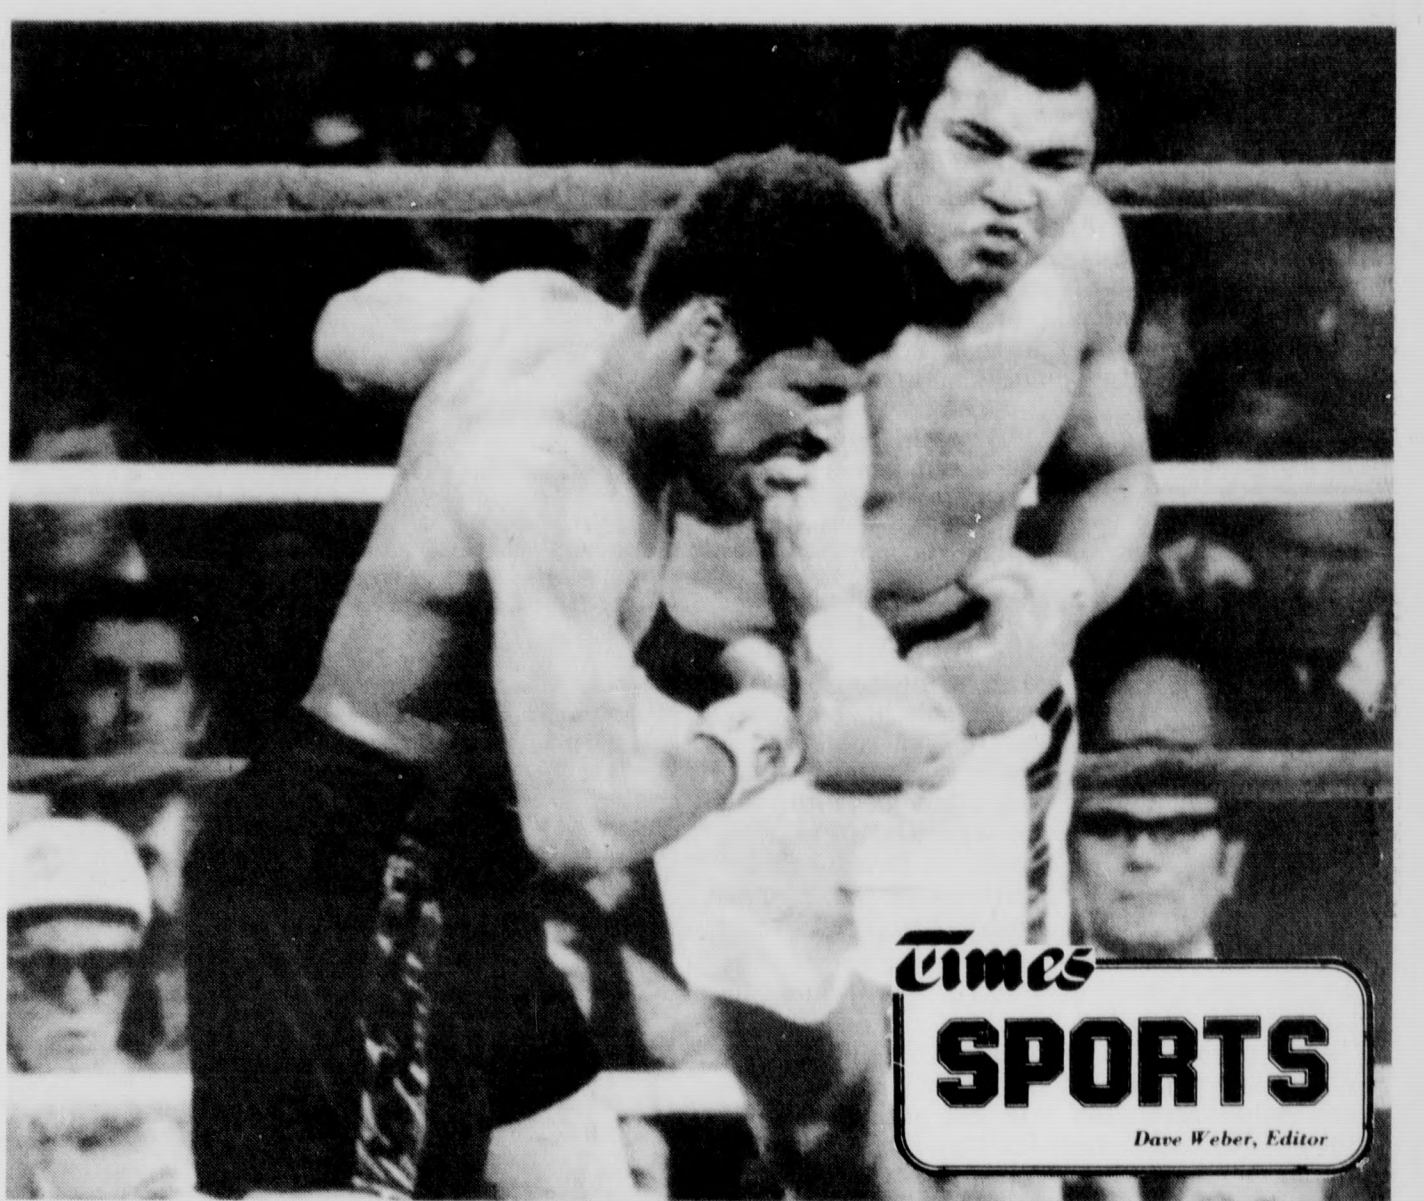

But Spinks just wouldn't quit.

He not only beat Ali, he came awfully close to putting him on the floor in the final chaotic three minutes.

Not only does the defeat have to hurt Ali's great pride, a pride built by 23 heavyweight championship bouts and the ability to overcome adversity in and out of the ring, it also badly dented his bankbook.

Ali has been talking about wanting $12 million to fight Ken Norton in a title rematch. Norton, who was at ringside, now has to look elsewhere for a title bid. But he could be in line for a shot at Spinks before Ali gets one, because the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association do not recognize return clauses in contracts.

Leon Spinks slips a punch here and soon, the title was his.

Amador clinches part of 5th crown in row

The band played "The Theme From Rocky" and Leon Spinks had just defeated Muhammad Ali.

The timing was ideal for the ending of Amador Valley High School's four-year domination of the East Bay Athletic League basketball championship on this night of upsets.

The crowd packed into Livermore High's gym would have liked nothing better, but the Dons stopped the underdogs' flow at 10:01 p.m. and rallied to defeat the Cowboys, 52-49, in overtime to clinch a tie for their fifth league championship.

For coach Skip Mohatt and his inspired Dons, the win avenged a 19-point setback handed them by the Cowboys in their own gym a month ago. So much for the home court advantage.

After the Cowboys had won the first game, Mohatt expressed a belief that Livermore was much the best team in the league and doubted the Dons could win the rematch. Maybe, just maybe, that was all the usual self-deprecating talk of a cautious coach.

But, for rookie Livermore coach John Erceg, only a prayer can be counted on for a share of the title. The 10-3 Cowboys must beat Monte Vista Friday and hope California can upset the Dons.

Last night's game was tied at 45 at the conclusion of regulation play. Livermore's Dick Patterson tied it for the 'Pokes with :27 left on a lay-in. Amador's attempt for one last shot was foiled when Paul Campana missed a jumper with six seconds to go.

Neither team could score for the first 110 seconds of overtime, but with 1:10 to go, Amador's Chris Kearns rebounded a missed shot by team mate Darren Pembroke and put it through the hoop for a 47-45 Don lead. Rick Howard, who played perhaps his finest game of the year with a 24-point effort, meshed a pair of free throws with :45 showing to just about ice the game.

Although John Farfan drove for a Livermore bucket with 37 seconds to play, the 'Pokes were unable to get the ball back and had to foul Kearns with 26 seconds to go. Kearns made both ends of the one-and-one to hammer the final nail into the coffin.

Brian Schweiger and Patterson led the Cowboys with 14 points apiece while Farfan scored 10, though he was held to a single field goal in the first half. Kearns scored 12 to back Howard's effort for AV, while Pembroke netted nine.

Famous last words

What Ali said before fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Muhammad Ali, attired in a red-striped robe, was lounging in his sumptuous tower suite in the Las Vegas Hilton — threatening to carry his month's self-imposed silence down to the wire — when an old friend suddenly pricked his conscience.

"Muhammad," said Harold Conrad, promoter of some of Ali's earlier fights, "do you think you are being fair to all those newspaper guys downstairs who have been your friends? Do you think you are being fair to the promoters?"

Ali's eyes got as big as saucers. He leaped from his chair as if stuck in the back by the point of a sword.

"Maybe you're right," he said. "Call the press. I'm ready to talk."

The time was 3:56 p.m. Tuesday, 27 hours before he was scheduled to answer the bell against raw, untamed Leon Spinks in the 20th defense of his heavyweight title.

The word went out. There was a rush from typewriter-clacking press room in the Hilton Pavilion. Elevators were jammed to the 29th floor.

The gag was broken. Boxing's fabled Mouth was in full cry again. The boxing game, by Ali's own admission, was saved.

"Nobody made me do it — I got no pressure from CBS or the promoters," he insisted. "Nobody bosses me. I am the first black athlete to dare to be free. I didn't go to Hollywood and start destroying my race. I did it to prove something."

Ali intimated that his prefight commitment to silence, a startling departure from his bombastic characteristics of the past, was a sort of game to emphasize his importance to the sport.

"When I stop talking, the presses stop, boxing dies," he chortled. "You all will suffer when I leave. The fame will fall."

The champion covered a broad range of subjects, including future plans which could call for an $18 million return fight with Ken Norton, and pulled a set of specially-made false teeth from his pocket.

"This is Spinks," he said, brandishing the misshapen, fang-like ivories intended to mock the challenger's missing two front teeth. "I call him Beaver."

Ali repeatedly stuck the false teeth in his mouth, making him look like some movie monster, but spoke soberly of his fight against the 24-year-old former Olympic champion.

"Spinks was just a kid in the St. Louis ghetto when I fought Sonny Liston twice, Floyd Patterson twice and beat all those good fighters," he added. "Can't you see how scared he is going to be of me?"

Ali acknowledged that he was "scared to death" in his bouts with Sonny Liston and George Foreman.

"Floyd Patterson was the best all-around fighter I ever fought," he added. "Earnie Shavers hit me harder than anybody. After my third fight with Joe Frazier I said I felt like I was next to death."

"Whooee! Shavers hit me much harder. Man, I was numb. I was dizzy. I don't know how I held on."

Ali said he wanted no more tough fights although he acknowledged that a $12 million price tag for a fourth fight with Norton and $10 million for either Frazier or Foreman, both retired, would spark his interest.

"I want to go on to other things," he said. "After this fight I am going to Bangladesh and then to Pakistan — those poor people over there are calling for me. Then I come back home to do a fight for Senator Percy (R-Ill.)."

They want me to do a TV series about a great black leader named Gideon Jackson and a movie about a black ruler before the Pharaohs. I'm gonna do Hannibal.

"I belong to the world."

New ball game for USF

SAN FRANCISCO — Coach Bob Gaillard says the University of San Francisco's game plan has to be changed now that forward James Hardy is sidelined with a broken thumb.

Gaillard told the Northern California basketball writers at their Tuesday luncheon, "We will have to make some adjustments. If we get the lead, we might spread the court and be patient."

"...We are not dominant on the boards anymore, and we don't have any depth in the front line. We can't play like we did."

Gaillard's Dons lead Nevada-Reno by a half game in the West Coast Athletic Conference and have four league games left — three at home, including Reno a week from Saturday, and one on the road at St. Mary's.

St. Mary's 86-76 defeat of Reno's Wolf Pack last Saturday enabled the Dons to regain the WCAC lead and earned player of the week honors from the writers for Gaels' center Norm Kelly, a 6-foot-10 transfer from Southern Cal. Kelly had 26 points, 10 rebounds and five slam dunks, outperforming Reno's star center Edgar Jones.

"He didn't practice all week because he had the flu," St. Mary's Coach Frank LaPorte said of Kelly, adding: "We weren't sure if he was really sick, or if he was coming down with Jones-itis. It was the best he's played all year."

Oregon and Oregon State invade the San Francisco Bay area this weekend to take on Cal and Stanford. Stanford has lost five in a row.

Former Raider Birdwell dies

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Dan Birdwell, apro football player with the Oakland Raiders for eight years, died Tuesday of an apparent heart attack.

Birdwell, 37, was found dead by one of his three children as she returned from school. He had been ill since Monday night with fever, aches and pains and other flu-like symptoms, his wife Diane said.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine the cause of death.

Birdwell, 6-foot-6 and 300 pounds, was with the Raiders from 1962-1969, playing linebacker, center and defensive tackle at various times. He earned all-league honors at tackle in the American Football League in 1968. He played for the Raiders in the 1968 Super Bowl II loss to the Green Bay Packers.

In recent years Birdwell had been a sales representative for various Southern California business firms.

Birdwell graduated from the University of Houston, and played in the 1962 College All Star game.

Survivors include his wife and children Tracey, 14, Daniel Jr., 13 and Lori, 10.

"It wouldn't surprise me to win because of my background of tournament experience."

Nicklaus and the other top golfers feel the demanding 7,029-yard par-71 Riviera links is in outstanding shape for the 52nd annual L.A.

Defending champion Tom Purtzer said, "The course is playing a little longer now than it did a year ago. But the greens are very good. They may be a little slower because of the rain but they are good."

Purtzer shot a 273, 11 under par, to win his first tour event and the top prize of $40,000 a year ago. The golfers shoot at the same first money this week.

Potts wins award

Steve Potts of Amador Valley High School has been named one of Alameda County's Flecto Prep of the Weeks for his outstanding performance in the East Bay Athletic League Wrestling Tournament.

A 115-pound wrestler, he won the EBAL championship and is 17-1 on the season. It was Pott's third league crown in three years. Each title was in a different weight class.

Potts led Amador Valley to its first EBAL championship in six seasons.

The other Alameda County Flecto winner was Price Troche of San Lorenzo. A senior, the 115-pound matman won the Hayward Athletic League Tournament with a win over top-ranked Bruce Bennett of Sunset. He took the match by a decisive 6-2 margin.

Return of an anti-hero

On Sports

OAKLAND — Kermit Washington is back in uniform, but it's a different uniform. His suspension is over, but his trials, literally, are not.

His punishment may have been too severe, but its unthinkable Washington will ever wantonly level another basketball player the way he leveled Rudy Tomjanovich back in December, before he was suspended for two months and traded by Los Angeles to Boston.

Kermit Washington

He came back to grab 14 rebounds in a surprisingly long 25-minute stint against the Warriors Tuesday night, but he still faces lawsuits from Tomjanovich and the Houston Rockets and almost $53,000 is gone from his pocket.

"It's not really out of the way," said Washington after the Celtics had beaten the Warriors, 98-75. "I have to go litigation now, that's on my mind, I'm very apprehensive."

And the adulation of the masses that beckons the professional athlete has turned sour.

"When people I don't recognize come up to me, I don't know if they'll stab me in the back, or what ever," said Washington, later retracting the word "stab." "It's a different feeling, I'm a friendly, outgoing person, but now when fans run up to me I'm hesitant. I don't know what they're running up to me for."

The sell-out Coliseum Arena crowd booed Washington, but some of the fans also struck up and across-the-press-table argument with Warrior guard Phil Smith. Washington, who claims he doesn't hear the crowd anyway, seemed unconcerned.

"The boos are nothing compared to the letters and the phone calls I get at my house," he said. "They're mild compared to what I've been getting. It seems like people are pulling against me more than for me, the letters I get, the people I see on the street..."

Those are the reasons Boston general manager Red Auerbach wants Kermit to stay home when Boston visits Rudy T-less Houston Tuesday. Washington says it's a non-issue.

"I'm going to Houston. Hey, I don't care what they say. They're paying me to play and I'm going to play, regardless," he said flatly. "Red says 'don't go,' but I've got the plane ticket."

"I'm part of the team and I won't feel I'm part of the team if I don't go to Houston. I have to go there sooner or later," he explained. "I have to look myself in the mirror and say, 'are you gonna go down there or are you not gonna go down there?'"

"It's not that I'm brave or anything — I have to do it sooner or later. I'd rather do it right now," said Washington, who believes the vision of Kermit "Machine Gun" Washingtonetti, enforcer deluxe, is a multi-media presentation based on pure and simple fiction.

"Sometimes it seems like I'm reading about another person when I'm reading about myself. It's not the Kermit Washington I know," said Washington, adding, "To make this thing newsworthy, they've built me up as a better player."

"When I was with the Lakers, I was just an accomplice to Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar). I was not a player people knew about," he said. "This thing is making me visible to the public."

I read in the paper about 'the Lakers' star player. I was not a star player with the Lakers. Averaging 11 points and 11 rebounds, that's just an average player," Washington claimed.

Against the Warriors, Washington was visible, diving for every loose ball as though the National Basketball Association championship hung in the balance. Perhaps, unconsciously, Washington is trying to woo the public with displays of hustle.

Perhaps, but Washington doesn't think so.

"I dived for the ball all the time in LA," he said. "I've got to play aggressively or I won't be playing in this league. I'd have to go home and be a school teacher or something."

Washington's suspension was up the 10th, but two Celtic games were postponed because of the snowstorms that blanketed the Northeast last week. The delays were a blessing to Washington.

"Not knowing when you will come back — or if you will come back — has an affect on your training," said Washington, inadvertently using the word "off-season" to describe the 60-day lay-off.

"During the snowstorms, I went back to LA and got in another five days of running in the mountains," he said. "Running is not the same as basketball, but if I come back and don't play well I don't want it to be because I didn't work hard when I was out."

"You reap what you sew."

Not many will look at Washington's last game as a Laker, the suspension that followed and disfigure.

Governors say

They can win a real pennant

DANVILLE — There is an added incentive for East Bay Athletic League sports teams to do well this school year.

The school with the best overall varsity record in all sports (boys and girls) combined will win a trophy or banner.

That decision was reached at the EBAL's Board of Governor's meeting here Tuesday. The rule will go into effect for the 1977-78 school year.

A three-member committee was formed to develop the scoring procedures.

Just off the results of the winter sports activities Amador Valley rates a strong chance at the award. The Dons have won the varsity title in wrestling and soccer and could capture the boys and girls basketball championships also.

The EBAL principals also tabled a motion to award football champions a banner, instead of a trophy. The concept of banners, instead of trophies, for all sports will be studied by the athletic directors and returned with a recommendation for the next meeting.

The Board also reached a decision to allow an honorable mention category to be included on the football all-star team. Also coaches will no longer be allowed to vote for players on their own team.

A suggestion of awarding certificates for all-league teams instead of medals was also tabled until a poll of all team sports coaches could be taken.

The Board of Governors set Chabot College as the site for the EBAL track meet on Wednesday, May 10 and Friday, May 12.

In other changes the Board of Governors approved a proposal by the EBAL swimming coaches to determine the champion by a combination of both the dual meet season and the league meet, changed classification of second swimming team from frosh-soph to junior varsity and allowed the Amador Valley girls tennis team to hold a four-team practice, with pro sets and that the affair would count as one practice match.

Pair leads bowl

Pearl Vannucci and Lowell Bayless dominated the action last week at Granada Bowl in Livermore.

Vannucci, playing in the Friday Senior Citizens league, hurled a 268 high game. She has a 144 average.

Bayless fired an outstanding 735 series in the Men's Classic league with a high game of 251 and a 243 and 241.

Marcia Shehan was also a standout, bowling a 633 series in the Valley Market Beef Steak League. She had games of 207-225-201.

Rich Power reported in with a 666 in the Classic with a high game of 237.

Bob Dell upped his 161 average in the Tuesday Nite LLLRA loop with a 233 high game and 618 series. Bernie Kuhn topped his 140 average with a 213 and 570 set.

Cowgirl jv tops Amador

Livermore High School's girls junior varsity basketball team upset league-leading Amador Valley 31-24 Tuesday night in East Bay Athletic League action.

Livermore, now 8-2, was led by Betsy Hickman, Carolyn Miller and Theresa Schlagten all with eight points. Julie Fernandes led the losers with seven. AV is now 9-1.

Mustangs win

The Mustangs took a 4-1 decision over the Bengals in the Livermore Soccer Club Flight B championship game recently. xgBrian Ferriera had two goals for the winners. Tom Digiallonardo and Brian Souza added single goals. Mike Conaway had two assists and Brian Ferriera one for the Mustangs.

Vance Grir had the only Bengal goal. Todd Smith, Tom Rodriguez, Doug Kuhl and Peter Ellis did well all-around for the Mustangs. David Wilson had 15 saves for the Bengals and Jeff Miller 13 for the winners.

Warriors cooperate

Havlicek's last hurrah

OAKLAND — John Havlicek says he wants to go into retirement "on an upbeat situation."

The Boston Celtics, blessed with Havlicek's presence for 16 National Basketball Association seasons, are longshots at this point of the race to the playoffs. But Tuesday night's 98-75 victory over the Golden State Warriors gave them an upbeat feeling.

"There are 31 games to go and we're really not that far behind some other teams. Our aim is to make the playoffs and I don't think it's insurmountable," said Havlicek.

He scored 24 points after receiving a standing ovation from a sellout crowd before the game, his last in Oakland unless both the Celtics and Warriors pull miracles and wind up in the NBA championship series.

Boston's record is 19-31, but under Coach Tom Sanders who took over after Tommy Heinsohn was fired, the team is 8-8. Kermit Washington, in his first game since coming off a 60-day suspension for slugging Rudy Tomjanovich, indicated he could be a big help down the stretch as he grabbed 14 rebounds in 25 minutes of action.

For the Warriors, things were anything but upbeat after a third straight defeat made their record 27-29.

"I thought after we'd lost that tough game to San Antonio Saturday night, we'd play a good game. But the second half was just a disaster, especially that last quarter," said Coach Al Attles.

Boston led 52-50 at halftime, going ahead late in the second period on a jump shot by Ernie DiGregorio, then outscored the Warriors 21-16 in the third period and 25-9 in the last 12 minutes. The Warriors made 3 of 20 field goal attempts in the final quarter.

Rick Barry, who matched Havlicek's 24 points, said during halftime ceremonies honoring the Celtics' star, "Now that you're retiring, it means I'm one step closer to being the oldest player in the league."

Property tax cuts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Planned changes in this year's top property tax bill would cut current homeowner tax bills by 40 percent instead of 50 percent, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy said today.

At his weekly press conference, the San Francisco Democrat said Sen. Peter Behr, author of the measure, had agreed to this change which will scale down relief in the measure and reduce the new tax revenue.

At the same time, the measure would levy a 5 percent tax on profits from sale of owner occupied houses instead of a 5 percent tax on the gross earnings. That would cut the measure's price tag from about $2 billion to $1.85 billion, McCarthy said.

The bill, SB 1 by Behr, RTiburon, was scheduled for a vote today in the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, but McCarthy said that he didn't know if the amendments would force a delay.

Supporters of the Behr bill say that some form of new taxation is needed to provide significant homeowner property tax cuts. But a Behr aide, Ken Wiseman, said some legislators were concerned that if the bill had too high a tax it might not weaken support for the Jarvis initiative.

Critics say that June ballot measure would cripple local government by taking away $7 billion a year in property tax revenue.

Strict pesticide rules set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Wednesday it will outlaw the sale of about 2,000 chemical pesticides to everyone except farmers and commercial applicators trained in their use.

Douglas M. Costle, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said the crackdown involves 23 "potentially hazardous" ingredients used in the manufacture of the 2,000 commercial products, many of which are commonly used to control insects and weeds in food crops.

"Competent growers and applicators will continue to have the chemical tools they need to raise crops and control pests," Costle said in a statement. "The public will be protected from possible illness or environmental contamination resulting from unskilled use of those compounds."

Costle said the 23 ingredients were restricted "because tests or actual experience showed that these compounds can poison people through excessive skin contact or inhalation or that the ingredients might harm birds, fish and other wildlife if misused."

He also said the agency is considering limiting the use of 16 other ingredients to trained applicators and that more pesticides will be studied for similar action in the future.

However, Costle added that "the vast majority of pesticides used by backyard gardeners and homeowners will continue to be available under the same conditions that apply now."

About 35,000 pesticide products made from more than 1,400 ingredients are sold in the United States.

Manufacturers will have 120 days to attach approved warning labels or supplemental labels stating "Restricted Use Pesticide" or other cautionary warning to products leaving their plants. Pesticide dealers will be given 270 days to relabel existing stocks.

Larry O'Neill, an EPA spokesman, said that it may be next fall before many restricted labels are seen on retail store shelves.

Only farmers and commercial applicators who have been certified will be legally able to purchase any of these products after the labeling requirement has been started.

An uncertified farmer who uses a restricted pesticide after labeling will be subject to penalties ranging from a simple warning to a maximum fine of $1,000.

Among the 23 basic ingredients restricted are endrin, used to kill insects in cotton, wheat and other grain crops; ethyl parathion, used for cotton, tobacco, peanuts, soybeans and other crops; and picloram for killing weeds and brush.

The 23 ingredients restricted by EPA include: acrolein, acrylonitrile, aldicarb, allyl alcohol, aluminum phosphide, azinphos methyl, calcium cyanide, demeton, endrin, ethyl parathion, fluoroacetate 1081, hydrocyanic acid, methomyl, methyl bromide, methyl parathion, mevinphos, paraquat, picloram, sodium cyanide, sodium fluoroacetate, strychnine, sulfotep and tepp.

Russian flu discovered in 10 states

ATLANTA (AP) — Russian flu now has been identified in 10 states and the District of Columbia, the national Center for Disease Control said Wednesday. Although influenza has reached the epidemic level nationwide, most of the outbreaks have been caused by A-Texas and A-Victoria strains, the CDC said.

The CDC said its surveillance system showed about 1,500 more deaths attributed to influenza and pneumonia than had been expected. But there undoubtedly are more because the survey covers only 121 cities, a spokesman said. The Russian virus, which was first identified in the Soviet Union and Hong Kong in October, has been isolated in the laboratory in Wyoming, Colorado, Texas, California, Illinois, Tennessee, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The deaths have been caused by A-Texas and A-Victoria, and none has been attributed to Russian flu, the CDC said.

The Russian virus appears to be attacking people under 25, the CDC said. Apparently that is because it is related to a virus prevalent in the United States between 1947 and 1957, and persons 25 to 50 who had the flu then would have some immunity, medical authorities say.

The Russian virus, technically identified as H1N1, has been identified in laboratory tests in Taiwan, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Malaysia, Finland, the United Kingdom, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Norway and Sweden, the CDC said.

There is no way to tell which type of flu a person may contract without a blood test. The symptoms are the same — headache, rising temperature, aching muscles and a sore throat, the CDC said.

Tut treasure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The "Treasures of Tutankhamun" opened at the County Art Museum to rave reviews from a crowd as glittering as the boy monarch's burial artifacts.

Singer Cher thought King Tut's road show was captivating. So did actresses Kate Jackson and Lorraine Gray.

"But it was hard to follow the script," confessed Miss Gray, who played in the movie "Jaws."

Berkeley cafe owner bought Delta King

An exciting new adventure in dining got underway this week.

Cafe owner M.K. Sum, 72, began plans to convert an old Bay Area river boat into five different international restaurants.

The Berkeley restaurateur bought the old stern-wheeler Delta King for $35,200 at a hearing in U.S. District Court last Friday.

Sum said he plans to restore the ship, which has been stripped and vandalized over the past 20 years, and moor it at San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf as an international restaurant.

The 280-foot ship was owned by the bankrupt Quimby Island Reclamation District, and was sold by Solano County at an auction three weeks ago to cover about $17,000 in back taxes.

The high bidder at the auction was Tom Fat, a Sacramento attorney, who offered $32,000. But according to bankruptcy rules, the sale was subject to court approval. At the court hearing, bids 10 percent higher than the auction bid can be submitted.

Sum's bid was exactly 10 percent higher, and although Fat was present at the hearing, he made no effort to contest the offer. He estimated it would cost $200,000 to put the ship back "in good shape."

Sum, who migrated here from Shanghai, owns a Chinese restaurant in Berkeley called "Omei." He said he plans to include a Chinese restaurant on-board the ship. But, "a French restaurant, an Italian restaurant. I don't know yet," he said.

Built in 1926 in Stockton, the Delta King and Delta Queen were the largest riverboats ever to ply the waters of the Sacramento River. During World War II both ships were used as troop carriers and training ships, and were sold as surplus when the war ended. The Queen was sold to the Green Lines of Cincinnati, Ohio, and hauled backward through the Panama Canal.

The King was sold to a variety of people, and used as a factory barracks in Canada during the 1950s.

Nun suspect

DENDERMONDE, Belgium (AP) — A nun from a nursing order is suspected of killing up to 10 elderly patients to get their belongings and sell them to support her morphine habit, police said today.

Cecile Blombeek, 44, known as Sister Gofrida of the Apostolic Order of the Holy Joseph, was arrested last week on theft, drug and forgery charges, police said.

They said she became addicted to morphine eight years ago following surgery for a brain tumor, and that she was dismissed as matron of a geriatric ward at a clinic last year and sent to a private clinic for detoxification.

U.S. listens for signals from space

By TOM MARTENS
Times Staff Writer

SUNNYVALE — Mother earth may — in a way — already be talking with aliens on other planets without realizing it.

"The earth has been leaking its radio and television signals into space since their invention," said John H. Wolfe, a federal space scientist, who added that they could have already traveled 20 light years away.

"The first star with a sun that could support planets and life is 10.3 light years away from earth," Wolfe said. This could have broad implications if someone out there is listening.

Any aliens tuning into the radio and television signals — complete with dialog from Milton Berle, Jerry Lewis, Hank Williams and the Lone Ranger — might get the wrong impression about earth.

"But," Wolfe added, "that's only a theory." The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, however, pays Wolfe to consider such things as part of its Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence (SETI).

The fledgling program, for which federal funding is being debated in Washington, involves listening with a gigantic radio antenna for signals from outer space.

Wolfe said no one has heard anything from space above the "space noise," a constant, low-level hushing sound.

"We've had a lot of exciting close calls," he said. "But investigation has always traced the sound to an earth-generated source."

He explained that NASA and some American universities listen for noises from space, but on a small scale. The Russians, on the other hand, have an active program to listen and communicate with anyone contacted in outer space, Wolfe said.

He said the time is right for listening for several reasons: people are interested in space; transistor-like circuits allow man to build super-sensitive listening devices; scientists have discovered genetic findings which improve the likelihood that someone may live on another planet; and there's a good chance that such a civilization might be advanced enough to communicate.

"But," Wolfe added, "the signal wouldn't be loud."

He said for a signal 100 light years into space to reach earth, the alien's power source would have to be the equivalent of 100 million atomic power plants because the signal weakens as it travels through space.

"And even if we could communicate with someone 100 light years away, what do you ask them?" Wolfe asked. "We must select questions for which we don't need an answer for at least 200 years — 100 years out and 100 years back."

"There is one theory floating around that we're late comers," Wolfe said, "so other civilizations could be quite far advanced from ours. We could ask them about their art or music, about their longevity and what's in our planet's future that we should be worrying about."

There is, however, a potential problem if man discovers an advanced civilization too close, Wolfe said.

"If we find something close ... say 10 light years away ... they could provide information about controlling fusion energy," Wolfe said, referring to a process of bonding atoms to produce atomic power. "This easy answer could result in cultural shock and depress research on earth."

He said communication efforts by the U.S. to reach any space colonies have been scattered. The Pioneer space probe — which escaped into space and contains the now-famous man and woman drawing — is heading in such a direction that it won't pass a star for 100,000 years.

The drawing is etched into a gold-anodized aluminum plate, 152 by 229 millimeters, attached to the spacecraft's antenna support struts in a position to shield it from erosion by interstellar dust. The radiating lines at left represent the positions of 14 pulsars — cosmic sources of radio energy — arranged to indicate our Sun as the home start of the launching civilization. The "I" symbols at the ends of the lines are binary numbers that represent frequencies of these pulsars at the time of launch of the Pioneer relative to that of the hydrogen atom shown at the upper left with a "1" unity symbol. The hydrogen atom is also used as a "universal clock," and the regular decreases of the pulsars will enable another civilization to determine the time that has elapsed since Pioneer was launched. The hydrogen atom is also used as a "universal yardstick" for sizing the human figures and outline of the spacecraft shown on the right. The hydrogen wavelength — about 3 inches — multiplied by the binary number representing "8" shown next to the woman give her height — 64 inches. The figures represent the type of creature that created Pioneer. The man's hand is raised in a gesture of good will. Across the bottom are the planets, ranging outward from the sun, with the spacecraft's trajectory arcing away from Earth, passing Mars and swinging by Jupiter.

Drought over, PG&E cuts bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. will cut its electric rates by $407 million annually because the drought is over, a state official said today.

A PG&E spokesman confirmed company plans to file for rate cuts, but he gave lower estimates.

The average PG&E customer's electricity bill will be cut from the current $20.47 monthly to $19.89 in April and to $18.07 in October, PG&E spokesman Ralph Fairchild said.

PG&E gets nearly 40 per cent of its power from hydroelectric plants, but had to shut them down during the drought for lack of water. The company was allowed rate increases to offset the higher cost of producing power by burning oil and gas.

Customers of Southern California power companies will not get the same rate cuts, because little of their power is produced by hydroelectric plants.

Robert Batinovich, president of the state Public Utilities Commission, said PG&E would cut rates 22 percent across the board to all but "lifeline" customers.

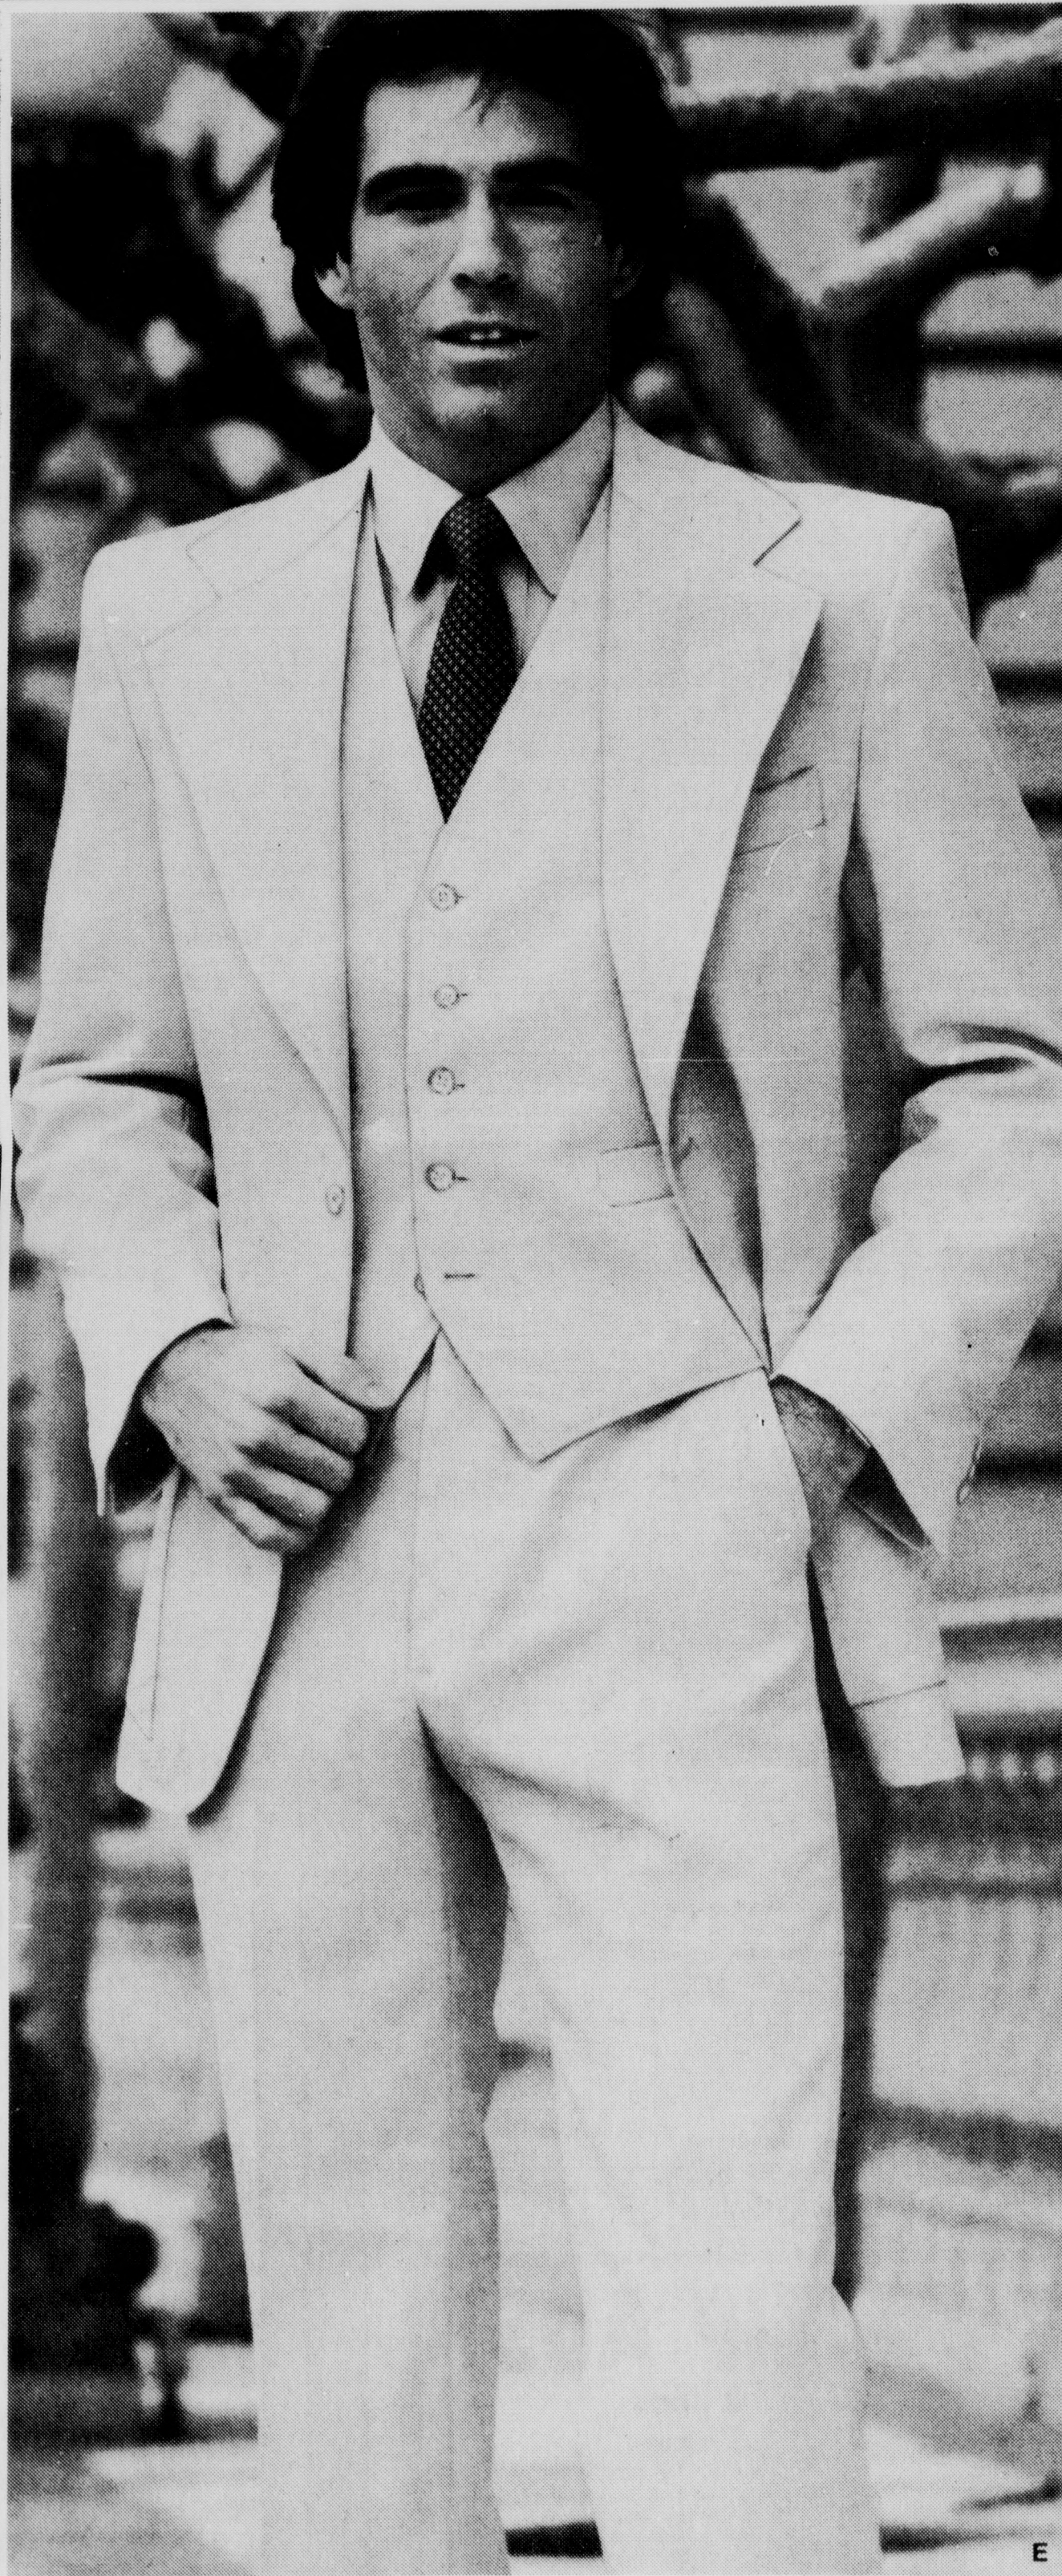

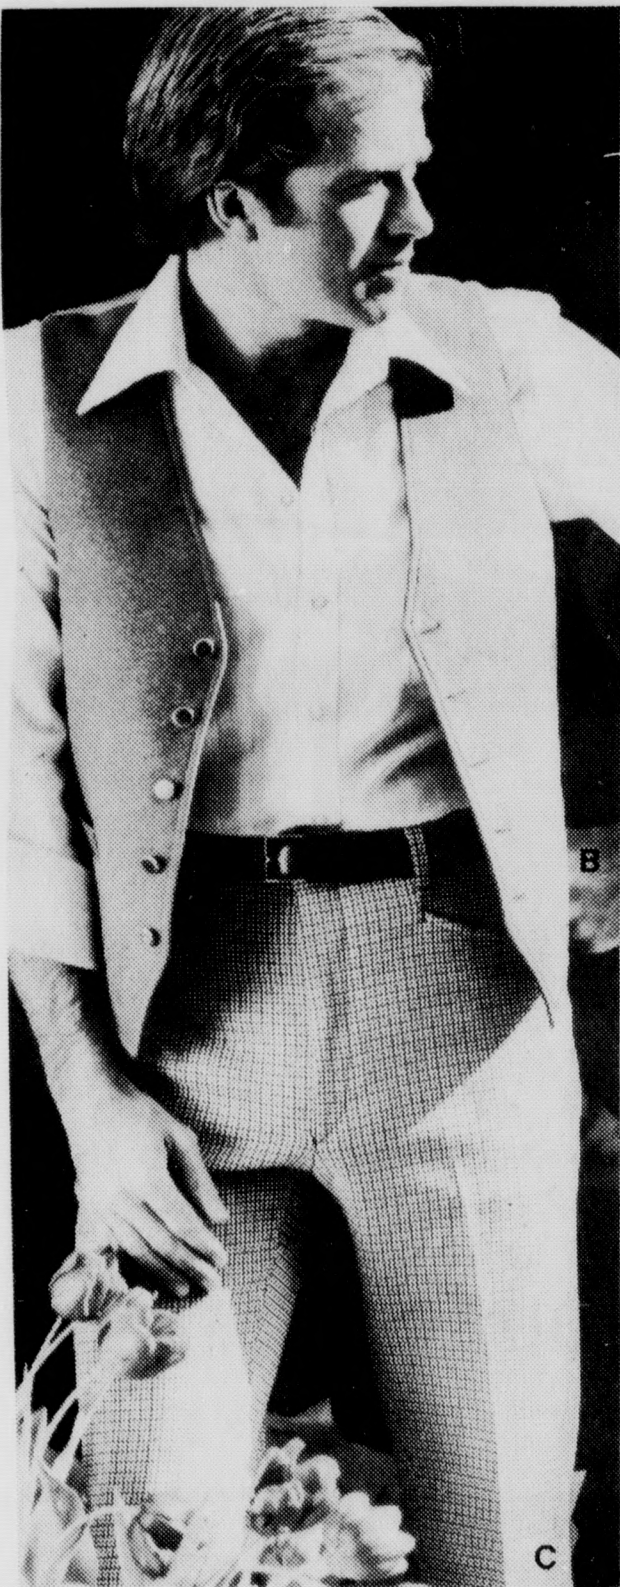

In testimony to a legislative committee, Batinovich said the rate cuts will occur in installments — about $100 million in April, $150 million in July and another $150 million in October.

Panel of experts

Judges select top tasty recipes

After receiving some 1000 recipes from our readers, judges in the Times' recipe contest were more than overwhelmed.

But, they took on the task with an admirable mixture of humor, taste and expertise. Their backgrounds and experience with food were completely different, and, because of this, the debates and discussions were many.

They've made some wonderfully varied and, needless to say, delicious choices. We're grateful for the hours of careful studying, tasting — and lively discussion — we saw them undertake.

And who were these food experts?

Kay Abreu, who handles the overwhelming task as meat chairwoman for the San Ramon Valley Co-op, is not just a meat expert. She loves microwave cooking, and has been doing it extensively for over a year at home. A member of the Dublin Women's Club gourmet section, Kay has had lots of experience in good home cooking, from Italian to Mexican food. She is the mother of three boys and resides in Dublin.

Lucy Cole, who has studied with famed chefs James Beard, Madhur Jaffrey and Macella Hazan, teaches cooking in her San Ramon home for area food buffs. A contract administrator at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Lucy has a library of some 700 cookbooks, and is writing one of her own. She has tentatively titled it "The Global Gourmet Cookbook."

Josephine Haas is perhaps one of the most active seniors in the area, having been president of the Senior Forum of Contra Costa County, the Dublin Women's Club and the Senior Californians. She loves cooking and reading though cookbooks, and she has a warm laugh which is a wonderful part of her outgoing personality. Aside from her many other club activities, she's also a member of the Dublin Women's Club gourmet section.

Froogh Golmohammad was the exotic Persian cook in the group, owner of Pleasanton's Noland Catering Service and a native of Iran. Froogh, who is teaching her three daughters the art of gourmet cooking, is also a fortune teller who can read Turkish coffee grounds. Experienced in international cuisine, Froogh is very adept at complex Persian cooking.

All the judges carefully and diligently went over the recipes in detail, discussed their thoughts, joked, debated — and just had fun. We at the Times' thoroughly enjoyed their presence here. And we think they made some fine choices, which we'd like to share with our readers.

'Fluffy pumpkin cheesecake' found best over 1,000 plus

Grand prize winner

Jean France was the oldest girl of 12 kids in a Canadian family — so she learned early how to cook, and cook well. The grand prize winner for her "Fluffy Pumpkin Cheesecake," Jean has four children and came to the U.S. in 1973. She's always liked cooking, she says, but now Jean is trying her hand at freelance writing too. The cheesecake recipe, she says, is a favorite of her husband, who works for General Electric.

"Fluffy pumpkin cheesecake," the grand prize winner, was a recipe that won the judges' hearts. The ginger-snappy crust, the blend of spices and pumpkin and its warm aroma in the kitchen were all considered "entraining" and very original. Jean France of Livermore, who sent in the recipe, says that it's a winner at parties or company meals.

FLUFFY PUMPKIN CHEESECAKE
crust
6 tablespoons melted butter

1½ cups ginger snap crumbs
6 tablespoons brown sugar

Combine these ingredients and set aside one quarter of the mixture for topping. Press remainder into a 9-inch pie plate to form the crust. Chill.

filling

1 cup apple juice (unsweetened)
¾ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
3 eggs separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
8 ounces cream cheese
¾ cup whipping cream
1 cup canned pumpkin

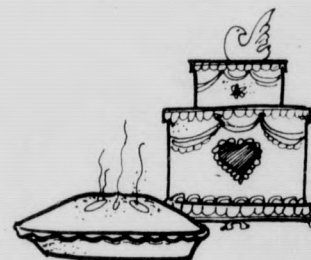

⅓ teaspoon cloves
⅓ teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ teaspoon ginger
Semisweet chocolate shavings

Combine apple juice, sugar, gelatin and salt in top of a double boiler. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved; remove from heat.

Beat egg yolks slightly and gradually add to gelatin mixture; cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Remove and add vanilla.

Then, using an electric mixer, combine lemon juice and cream cheese in a large bowl. Add gelatin mixture and beat smooth. Chill until as thick as jam.

Whip cream until stiff. Fold pumpkin, spices, whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg whites into gelatin mixture. Pour into pan; top with remaining crumbs and chill. Remove pan and place on pedestal cake plate. Decorate top with semisweet chocolate shavings. Serves 12.

'Cooking for Kids'

Eleven-year-old Joe Flatley, whose favorite food is a tie between chicken and pizza, won first prize in the "Cooking is for Kids" category of the Times' recipe contest. Joe's winning entry, baked bananas, "looks kind of sick, but tastes good," explained the young chef. Joe cooks "occasionally because it's fun. I just taught myself. It doesn't take much, just read the recipes." He is a fifth grader at Fairlands School in Pleasanton, and when he is not cooking, Joe is an avid fan of model rocket building.

Miscellaneous category

Potato soup captures blue ribbon

Although she made her family's favorite potato soup mostly from instinct and memory, Helen Wagenhoffer decided to write down the recipe for the first time to enter the Times' Favorite Recipe contest. The result: first place in the miscellaneous category. Helen has five children and is assisted in her cooking by her half-German, half-Spanish husband. She describes herself as a "cookbook collector" — and that seems to be a sign of success.

"Ilse's Potato Soup," which won 1st place in miscellaneous is an imaginative, delicious, and easily-made mixture of fresh vegetables and meat. Mrs. Helen Wagenhoffer of Dublin says it is Alsatian in origin, a variation on her mother's recipe.

ILSE'S POTATO SOUP

1/2 pound bacon, diced
16 medium potatoes, diced

1 carrot, diced
5 cups water
1 1/2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 10 oz. package frozen petite peas
1 quart half and half
1 bunch green onions, finely chopped

Brown bacon in large soup pot. Remove bacon and drain on paper towel. To the bacon fat add the diced potatoes, carrots, water, salt, pepper and garlic powder. Cook at medium heat and simmer until the potatoes are tender. Stir occasionally as mixture will become slightly thick from the starch of the potatoes. Turn off heat when the potatoes are tender. Slightly mash the potato in the liquid mixture. Add the peas and let sit for 5 minutes. Then stir in half and half, chopped onion and bacon. Turn on heat and continue cooking on medium heat for 15 minutes, stirring often. Do not boil. Adjust seasoning with salt and pepper. Serve while hot. 8 servings.

Variation: Instead of bacon, use 1/2 pound left over ham, diced, browned in 3 tablespoons oil.

Helen Wagenhoffer

Unusual delight: Sauerkraut Balls

SAUERKRAUT BALLS

1 med. onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup ham, chopped fine
1 cup corned beef, chopped fine
1 clove garlic, mashed
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups sauerkraut, drained, chopped very fine
1/2 cup beef stock
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped

Cook the mixture, stirring until it forms a thick paste. Spread the paste on a platter. Chill it and form into 1-inch balls.

FRITTER BATTER

1 1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon oil
3/4 cup flat beer
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

-Combine flour, salt and pepper. Make a well in the center, add egg yolks and oil and gradually beat in flat beer. Let the batter stand for at least 1 hour and fold in egg whites. Dip the kraut balls into the batter and fry them in hot deep fat until they are rich brown. Makes about 30.

In a skillet saute onion in butter, add ham, corned beef and garlic, stir mixture over low heat until it is very hot. Sprinkle the mixture with flour and continue to cook, stirring until well blended. Add sauerkraut, beef stock and parsley.

Pickles second in miscellaneous

Jean Kuhl won second place in the miscellaneous recipe category of the Times Recipe Contest with an old family recipe for dill pickles, which she says are a cinch to make.

Because the recipe had never been written down before, Jean found it a little hard to determine how much of what she put in, but she did succeed.

Jean says her secret for making really good pickles is to use small, fresh pickles. She uses cucumbers, dill and garlic all grown in her father's thriving garden. Because of the need to use the cucumbers as fresh as possible, her husband helps her make the pickles. Jean bakes every day for her husband and two boys, which she terms "a very appreciative audience" for her cooking accomplishments.

As Jean Kuhl of Livermore said, these pickles are easy for old pros and beginners alike. They won the second place prize in the miscellaneous category.

EASY DILL PICKLES

- 7 cups water
- 5 cups vinegar
- 1 cup salt
- 12 dill weeds (whole head)
- 12 cloves garlic, peeled
- 4 doz. small cucumbers, quartered length wise

Boil together water, vinegar, salt. Sterilize 12 pint jars and pack in each jar while still warm 4 small cucumbers, 1 dill weed and 1 clove of garlic. Pour boiled solution over cucumbers while hot and seal.

Let pickles ripen in jar at least 6 weeks before serving. Makes 12 pints.

Something new for family

CRISP ZUCCHINI PICKLE

- 5 quarts cubed zucchini
- 1 quart sliced onion
- 1 large head cauliflower, separated into flowerets
- 2 green pepper, seeded and chopped
- 1 quart peeled and sliced carrots
- 1 quart whole green cherry tomatoes
- 3 cloves garlic, halved

- 1/2 cup salt
- 6 cups sugar
- 5 1/2 cups vinegar
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons mustard seed
- 2 teaspoons celery seed
- 2 teaspoons turmeric

In a large mixing bowl or crock, combine all the vegetables including the garlic. Sprinkle them with the salt, stir and let the vegetables stand 3 hours. Drain well.

Combine the sugar, vinegar, water and spices in a large preserving kettle and heat to boiling. Stir in the vegetables and heat again to boiling. Pack the vegetables into clean, hot pint jars to within 1/2 inch of each jar's top. Pour in the hot liquid to within 1/2 inch of each top. Put on prepared lids and seal. Process in boiling water bath for 15 minutes. Makes about 8 (1 pint) jars.

Peanut butter, banana bread wins

Ever have a craving for peanut butter and banana sandwiches as a kid? This first prize winner brought back the good old days. It was submitted in the breads and sandwiches category by Meredith Tibbey of Pleasanton, who also won second prize in the fruits and vegetables section.

Meredith Tibbey

Meredith Tibbey of Pleasanton beat the odds. Out of more than 1000 entries, she won twice — first place, breads and second place, fruits and vegetables. It was more than luck, though. Her recipes for peanut butter and banana bread and for almond eggplant casserole were variations on those she'd acquired from friends. A mother of two young girls, Meredith is teaching them the gourmet ways of the kitchen. She herself learned young, from a mother who was a home economics teacher for 20 years.

Add 2 cups of flour, beat well. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough (about 4 cups). Turn out on lightly floured board and knead about 10 minutes, adding more flour to keep dough from sticking. When dough is smooth and elastic, place in a large greased bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm (85 degrees) place until doubled in bulk, about $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours.

Divide dough in half; shape each piece into a loaf and place in greased loaf pans. Cover and let rise until doubled again. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove from pans, cool. Makes 2 loaves.

ARAB BREAD

$2\frac{1}{2}$ cups warm water
1 tablespoon active dry yeast
2 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon salt
6 cups whole wheat flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add oil and mix in 3 cups flour. Beat well till dough is smooth and stretchy. Add salt and begin adding remaining flour cup by cup, mix well. Knead till no longer sticky. Turn onto floured board. Stop kneading in flour when dough is firm and smooth not stiff. Return dough to bowl, brush with oil, let rise till double in bulk. Punch down, divide in 12 pieces. Shape in perfectly smooth balls, allow to rest 10 minutes. Preheat oven 450 degrees. Take 3 to 4 dough balls and roll them on a floured board to $\frac{1}{4}$ inch flat cakes with no creases. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet on bottom rack of oven till puffed and lightly browned. Marcia Saltley loves to cook, and does it often in a house filled with four adorable kids, including two six-month-old twin boys. With her recipe for "Easy Potato Rolls," Marcia won second place in the breads and sandwiches category. "It was given to me by a friend about three years ago," she says. "When I first got it, I made it continually. It's easy, and a real favorite." The family, including husband Will, "keep me busy with just about everything," says Marcia. Nevertheless, she's still finding time to be creative in the gourmet category.

Cathy Havlik is one of the youngest winners in our recipe contest, an 11-year-old from Sunset School. Her sixth grade activities, she says, keep her very busy — and those include soccer, piano and "baking cakes." The daughter of Judith and David Havlik of Livermore, Cathy won second place in the cooking for kids division with her Lemonade Muffins. "Mom collects recipes," Cathy says. But she adds that "I cook breakfast in the morning" sometimes, and that, yes, "I'm a good cook."

Livermore miss

Muffins are second for 'kids'

Lab staffer has a winner

Mike Ross, a public information officer for the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, is also a very good cook. This recipe is "a favorite one that's elegant" for guests, Mike says. "I usually make it for four — and eat it all myself." He won first place in the entree division with "Sweet Curried Chicken Breasts."

Mike Ross, first place recipe in the entree division, "Sweet Curried Chicken Breasts," traveled a bit to make it to the Valley. Ross got it from the mother of his Texas roommate who received it from a minister in Joplin, Mo. The Lawrence Livermore Laboratory science writer likes "lots of different types of tastes" and prepares Chinese, Italian, Greek, Indonesian and Russian meals as a matter of course, admitting, however that "I've never baked a potato and only cook steaks once," that was for a McGovern fund-raiser in Texas. Ross said, "Men may not enter contests, but I think a lot of men cook."

SWEET CURRIED CHICKEN BREASTS

- 8 chicken breasts, boned
- 4 slices bacon, fried and chopped
- 1/2 cup celery, chopped
- 1/2 cup onion, chopped
- oil
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/2 cup apple sauce
- 2 Tablespoons curry powder
- 3 Tablespoons tomato paste
- 3 Tablespoons concentrated orange juice
- 1 Tablespoon sugar
- 2 Tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1 1/4 cups water
- 3 oz. package cream cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/4 cup chopped chutney (Major Grey's etc.)

Saute celery and onion in oil for 10 minutes. Add bacon. Sprinkle flour over mixture while stirring. Add apple sauce, curry powder, tomato paste, orange juice, sugar, lemon juice, bouillon and water. Cook mixture over medium heat for 20 minutes.

Saute chicken breasts quickly in separate pan. Pour half of the sauce into a shallow 13 by 9 inch casserole dish and place chicken in dish. To the other half of the sauce add the cream cheese, sour cream and chutney. Pour augmented sauce over chicken and bake for 20 minutes in preheated 350 degrees oven. Serves 8.

Dorothy Hardin

Dorothy Hardin, who grew up in Pleasanton, won second place in Entrees in the Times Recipe Contest for her "Ham Cannelloni Crepes," her first entry in a recipe contest.

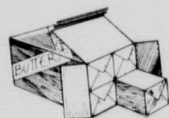

"My husband is more of a meat and potatoes man," says Dorothy, who sees crepes as simple but elegant, "but I slip these things in on him once in awhile, along with candlelight, and he goes along with it. He's easy to please."

And, indeed, when she fixed him the winning recipe, he commented: "I can see how that would be a winner."

Pork loin stuffed with fruit makes a hit for the crowd at dinner

PORK LOIN STUFFED WITH PRUNES AND APPLES

- 4½ to 5 lbs. boned loin of pork, center cut
- 12 medium sized pitted prunes
- 1 large tart apple, peeled, cored and cut into 1 inch cubes
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 salt
- 1 black pepper
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- ¾ cup dry white wine
- ¾ cup heavy cream thickening as for gravy
- water or wine if necessary for making gravy

Place prunes in a saucepan, cover with cold water, and bring to a boil. Remove from the heat and let the prunes soak in the water for 30 minutes. Then drain, pat dry with paper towels, and set aside. Sprinkle the cubed apple with lemon juice to prevent discoloring. With a strong, sharp knife, make a pocket in the pork by cutting a deep slit down the length of the loin, going to within ½ inch of the two ends and to within one inch of the other side. Season the pocket lightly with salt and pepper and stuff it with the prunes and apples, sewing up the openings with string kitchen thread. Tie the loin at one inch intervals to keep its shape while cooking.

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. In a casserole equipped with a cover and just large enough to hold the loin of pork comfortably, melt the butter and oil over moderate heat. When the foam subsides, add the loin, turning it from time to time with two wooden spoons. It should take about 20 minutes to brown the loin evenly on all sides. With a bulb baster or large spoon, remove all the fat from the pan. Pour in the wine, stir in the heavy cream whisking briskly, and bring to a simmer on top of the stove. Cover the pan and cook in the center of the oven for 1½ hours, or until the meat shows no resistance when pierced with the tip of a sharp knife.

Remove the loin from the pan and let it rest on a heated platter while you prepare the gravy. Skim the fat from the liquid in the pan and bring the liquid to a boil. Add gravy thickening made from flour and water and cook and stir until gravy is smooth. Cut away the strings from the loin, then carve the meat into inch slices. Each slice of meat will surround a portion of the stuffing. Pass the gravy separately. Serve 6 to 8.

Chicken speciale

A new twist for the bird

CHICKEN SPECIALE

- 3 chicken breasts, boned and skinned
- 4 teaspoons cornstarch
- 4 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon dry sherry
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- 5 tablespoons oil
- 1 whole carrot, thinly sliced
- 1 green pepper, thinly sliced
- 1 teaspoon fresh ginger, thinly shredded or 1 scallion cut up into ½ inch lengths
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoon cold water
- rice or noodles optional

Use very sharp knife to slice chicken breasts horizontally, paper thin. This is easier if breasts are slightly frozen. Cut the slices into strips about ⅛ inch wide and 1½ to 2 inches long. Place in bowl. Combine half of the cornstarch and half of the soy sauce with the sherry and egg white. Pour over chicken slivers and let stand 30 minutes.

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a skillet, saute carrot slivers 1 minute, add green pepper and saute for 1 minute. Remove vegetable mixture from pan and set to one side, in the same pan heat remaining 4 tablespoon of oil and saute onions for 30 seconds, with slotted spoon remove chicken from soy sauce and add to pan cooking and stirring until it shreds and turns white. Add reserved vegetable mixture, sugar and remaining soy sauce. Cook until heated through then stir in remaining 2 teaspoon of cornstarch dissolved in 2 teaspoons of cold water, cook briefly until all ingredients are coated with a clear glaze. May be eaten by itself or served over rice or noodles. Serve at once. Serves 4.

Turkey Pinwheels spin a fine feast

TURKEY PINWHEELS

Dough

- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 unbeat egg plus enough milk to make 3/4 cup

Sift together into bowl: 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in 1/2 cup shortening until particles are fine. Stir in 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Combine 1 unbeat egg and enough milk to measure 3/4 cup. Add to dry ingredients all at once. Stir until dough clings together in a ball. Knead gently on floured surface about 15 strokes. Roll out to a 12 x 10-inch rectangle.

Filling

- 2 tablespoons butter

- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 3 cups ground cooked turkey

Saute 2 tablespoons chopped onion and 2 tablespoons green pepper in 2 tablespoons butter until tender. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat and add 3 cups ground cooked turkey. Spread evenly over dough. Roll as for jelly roll, starting with 12-inch side. Cut into 8 slices. Place cut-side down on greased baking sheet about one inch apart. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes until light brown. Serve hot with cheese sauce.

Cheese Sauce

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk

- 1 cup shredded sharp cheese
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon salt

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in 3 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 2 cups milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Add 1 cup shredded sharp cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Continue cooking until cheese melts. Serves 8.

Chicken Tandoori tantalizes taste

CHICKEN TANDOORI

- 1 teaspoon saffron threads
- 3 Tablespoons boiling water
- 2 chickens, 2 1/2 to 3 lb. each
- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
- 4 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons coriander seeds
- 1 teaspoon cumin seeds
- 1 one inch piece of fresh ginger root, scraped and coarsely chopped
- 2 med. sized garlic cloves, coarsely chopped
- 1 cup unflavored yogurt
- 1/2 teaspoon red food coloring
- 1/4 teaspoon ground hot red pepper
- 2 Tablespoons oil

Drop the saffron threads into a cup, pour the boiling water and soak for 5 minutes. Meanwhile pat the chickens dry inside and out with paper towels. Cut 2 slits about 1/2 inch deep and 1 inch long in both thighs and breasts of each bird. Mix the lemon juice with salt and rub over chickens pressing it into slits. Place the chickens in a large, deep casserole, pour the saffron and its soaking water over them and let marinate at room temperature for about 30 minutes.

Sprinkle the coriander and cumin seeds into ungreased skillet and shaking the pan, roast them over moderate heat for a minute or so. Then drop the seeds into the jar of an electric blender, add the ginger, garlic and 2 tablespoons of the yogurt, and blend at high speed until the mixture is reduced to a smooth paste. Stir in all of the remaining yogurt, the food coloring and the hot red pepper.

Spread the mixture evenly over the chickens, cover the casserole with a lid or foil, and marinate for 12 hours or overnight at room temperature or for at least 24 hours in the refrigerator. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Pour any liquid that has accumulated in the bottom of the casserole over the chickens and coat each one with 1 tablespoon of oil. Roast for 15 minutes, then reduce to 350 degrees and continue roasting until done.

Before serving, cut each chicken into 6 or 8 serving pieces and arrange them attractively on top of a platter of salad, or arrange them around rice — on a large heated platter.

Variations: Chickens can be cut into serving pieces before marinating also.

For lower calories, chicken can be skinned completely (remove all the skin before marinating, and discard). Serves 6 to 8.

Two-time Grand Prize winner comes through once again

Ann Anderson is kind of a legend by now in the Times recipe contest. A two-time grand prize winner, she took two awards last year and first place in fruits and vegetables this year.

This could be a coincidence, but it's more likely because Ann has been cooking some 20 years, and she loves it. Mother of four, the Dublin resident says she finds many of her recipes in newspapers. Readers shouldn't pass up her own "Layered Zucchini Quiche," which grabbed the top place in its category.

This recipe, submitted by Ann Anderson of Dublin, took first place in the fruits and vegetables category. It uses a bread crust for a really unusual quiche.

1/3 cup grated romano cheese

Cut bread diagonally in half. Overlap around edge of 9 inch pie plate or shallow 1/2 qt. baking dish. Slice zucchini. Saute in butter over medium high heat, stirring for 3 minutes. Add tomato, oregano, Dill weed and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Bring to boil; let bubble, uncovered 3 minutes. Mix in flour. Spoon into pie plate. Mix cottage cheese, eggs, sour cream, pepper, 3/4 teaspoon salt and half the romano cheese. Spoon over vegetables. Sprinkle with remaining romano cheese. Bake 375 degree oven 25 minutes or until set in center. Makes 19-inch quiche.

Ann Anderson

LAYERED ZUCCHINI QUICHE

- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup sour cream

meg. Heat all until very hot and serve topped with some sour cream or over vanilla ice cream. Serves approximately 10.

Our Dreyer's Gourmet Ice Cream Began Here:

Rico Tanzillo, on the right, recalls the kind of elbow grease you had to use to crank this old cream separator. It's something young Dick Wolff doesn't even remember, since today at the plant modern machinery does the work. But pride and attention to detail in creating a fine ice cream—that's something neither Dick nor Rico will ever forget.

'Quick Quiche' snatches 1st place

Mardelle Totah, a kindergarten teacher at Alisal School, says she likes cooking quick and easy things. So, she invented a quick quiche for the microwave oven that proved to be as delicious as it was fast. Mrs. Totah says she's had a lucky Year — her daughter had the first prize steer at the county fair. The mother of two says that her husband contributes a lot to the cooking skills in the family, and both of them like meals that are "easy and inventive."

This 1st place Microwave recipe was invented by Mardelle Totah of Pleasanton, and it is indeed a "Quick Quiche." It's delicious, and microwave fast.

Let stand 5 minutes then sprinkle in ham and chilies. Top with the grated cheese. Cook in microwave oven on "Bake" setting for 20 minutes or until set. Let sit 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Enchilada Casserole nabs 2nd Tami Coronado began cooking with a microwave two years ago, and she hasn't stopped since. She took second place in that category with an enchilada casserole which is a favorite of her husband, who is Spanish.

A former member of the Pleasanton Newcomers' Board, Tami is active in that group, as well as handling an active four-year-old son, David. Right now, she's experimenting with a food processor to produce some elegant meals for the family too.

"Enchilada Casserole," our second place winner in microwave, lends a spicy Mexican flair to the modern microwave cooking method. It was submitted by Tammie Coronado of Pleasanton.

ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

- 1½ lbs. ground chuck
- 1 onion chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced fine
- 1 package Enchilada mix, or 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 15 oz. can tomato sauce or puree
- 6 corn tortillas
- 2½ cups grated cheddar cheese

Crumble beef into casserole. Add onion and garlic. Cook 3 minutes, stir and cook 2 minutes longer.

Add Enchilada seasoning and tomato sauce. Cook 3½ minutes. Stir well.

Alternate layers of tortillas, meat sauce and cheese. Be sure to save ½ cup cheese for topping.

Cook 7 to 8 minutes. Sprinkle with ½ cup cheese. Use 2 quart casserole dish. Serves 4 to 6.

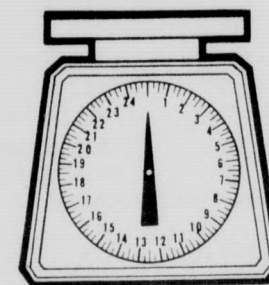

Microwave fixes fine Peter Pans

PETER PANS

- 1 package (6 oz.) chocolate chips
- 1 package (6 oz.) butterscotch chips
- ½ cup margarine
- ¾ cup peanut butter
- 2 cups miniature marshmallows
- 6 oz. Planters peanuts

Put chips, margarine, and peanut butter into an 8 x 12 inch glass baking dish.

Microwave 2 to 3 minutes until everything is melted. Stir well. Then add marshmallows and peanuts, refrigerate. When firm, cut into small squares. Makes 48 or more pieces.

Mock Ratatouille Dip makes an excellent treat in minutes

MOCK RATATOUILLE (EGGPLANT) DIP

- 1 large fresh eggplant chopped red and/or green pepper celery onions (green or yellow)
- 2 to 3 chopped fresh tomatoes or 1 small can of tomato paste
- 1 or 2 Tablespoons of lemon juice or lemon juice powder

- 1 to 2 teaspoons of garlic powder (more if you like garlic)
- salt and pepper to taste
- ¼ cup oil (vegetable)
- Microwave whole eggplant (cut off stem and wash first) on Full or High till soft, turn over once during cooking-time. Set eggplant aside to cool until easily handled. Peel and scrape pulp into bowl or dish. Chop any or all of: the red pepper, green pepper, celery, onions — any amount you like seems alright. Add the tomatoes or the can of tomato paste, the lemon juice or powder, garlic powder, salt and pepper, and the oil. Mix well, mashing the eggplant.

Cook on Full or High for 3 minutes, stirring once. Serve either hot or cold with French bread chunks, garlic rounds or corn chips. I prefer my dip refrigerated and served cold as the flavors seem to mellow. Serves 2 to 12.

Shelia Kuhn

Shelia Kuhn and her family moved from Connecticut to Pleasanton a year ago and along with their furniture and household items, Shelia brought her recipe for stuffed mushrooms, a second place winner in the Times' appetizer category.

Shelia is a member of Pleasanton Newcomers and says that her more than full time job is keeping an eye on her four children.

Shelia said the beauty of the stuffed mushrooms is that they can be made in advance and frozen and then can be heated in a jiffy leaving time for entertaining instead of cooking.

Stuffed mushrooms: great for parties

"Stuffed Mushrooms" are an elegant party appetizer which won second place in its division for Mrs. Daniel Kuhn of Pleasanton.

STUFFED MUSHROOM

1 lb. medium mushrooms (about 18)

1/4 cup butter or margarine melted

1/2 cup green onions.

finely chopped
1/4 cup white wine
1 cup Pepperidge Farm herb seasoned stuffing
1/4 cup mushroom stems finely chopped

Wash mushrooms and remove items. Dip caps in melted butter and place upside down in shallow baking pan.

Finely chop 1/4 cup of the mushroom stems and saute with 1/4 cup finely chopped green onions in remaining butter, adding more butter or margarine if necessary. Add wine. Lightly stir in stuffing.

Spoon mixture into mushroom caps. Bake at 350 degrees until hot. About 10 minutes.

Mushroom crustades

MUSHROOM CRUSTADES

24 slices fresh, thin-sliced white bread
3-inch round cookie cutter
24 muffin tins, about 3 inch at top
2 tablespoons soft butter

Coat inside of tins well with butter. Cut a 3 inch round from each slice of bread. Carefully fit these into the tins, pushing center of bread into the well and gently molding it around bottom of tin with the tip of your finger. Don't be rough or the bread will tear. Each bread round should form a perfect cup. Preheat oven to 400 degrees and bake the crustades for about 10 minutes or until they brown a little on the rims and on the outsides. Remove them from the tins and cool.

Mushroom Filling:

4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons (finely chopped) shallots
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms (finely chopped)
2 level tablespoons flour
1 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cayenne
1 tablespoon parsley
1 1/2 tablespoons chives, both finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

In a heavy 10 inch frying pan, slowly melt the butter, and before the foam subsides, add the shallots. Stir them constantly over moderate heat for about 4 minutes without letting them brown. Then stir in mushrooms. Mix well with the butter, coating them thoroughly before leaving them alone to cook. The mushrooms will begin to give off moisture. Stir them now and then and continue cooking till the moisture evaporates, about 10 to 15 minutes. Remove pan from heat. Sprinkle flour over the mushrooms and stir thoroughly until no trace of flour is visible. Immediately, pour the cream over this, and stirring constantly, bring the mixture to a boil. It will thicken heavily. Turn down the heat to the barest simmer and cook one or two minutes longer. Remove pan from heat and stir in the seasonings and herbs: salt, cayenne, parsley, chives, and lemon juice. Taste, transfer filling to a bowl. Fill each crustade with a small spoon, mounding the filling slightly. Sprinkle each one with a few grains of cheese (and dot with butter, if you like). Arrange on a cookie sheet. Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven about 10 minutes then broil briefly. (Watch carefully, they burn easily). Makes good party appetizers. Serves 15 to 24.

Kahlua pie is first

Except for desserts, Rosemarie Flessatti of Livermore is "not really too fond of cooking." But, that's OK because what she does, she does well. Mrs. Flessatti's "Kahlua Pie" won top honors in the dessert division of the Times' recipe contest.

Mrs. Flessatti uses the pie when she wants to serve a special dessert. She came across it in some sort of publication, she doesn't remember which one, and clipped it out. "Collecting recipes and fill cupboards with them is kind of a compulsion," she explained.

She said she likes desserts that a chocolatey and coffee-flavored and nice and gooey.

Flessatti's Kahlua pie

Mrs. Rosemarie Flessatti of Livermore sent in the creamy "Kahlua Pie" recipe, which is a variation on a favorite cookbook recipe she discovered years ago. It won her first place in the dessert category.

- KAHLUA PIE
- 4 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
 - 1/3 cup granulated sugar
 - 4 egg yolks
 - 3/4 cups Kahlua (coffee flavor liqueur)
 - 4 egg whites
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 - 2 cups heavy cream
 - 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1 baked pie shell 8 inch size

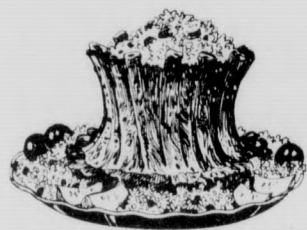

In top of double boiler combine gelatin and 1/3 cup granulated sugar. Add egg yolks and beat slightly, then stir in Kahlua. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool.

In large bowl beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt and beat until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in 1/4 cup of granulated sugar.

Whip 1 cup of the cream until stiff and place this over egg whites and then top with the Kahlua mixture. Gently fold mixtures together.

Refrigerate until mixture mounds when dropped from spoon and then pile gently into cooled pie shell.

About thirty minutes before serving, whip the remaining 1 cup of cream with the 2 tablespoons sugar and vanilla extract. Lightly spoon over top of pie. To serve cut into 8 wedges.

Sour cream cheese taters

SOUR CREAM AND CHEESE POTATOES

- 6 large boiled potatoes, grated (3 lbs.)
- 1 med. onion grated
- 1/2 pint cottage cheese
- 1/2 pint sour cream
- 2 teaspoons garlic salt or to taste
- 2 cups grated Monterey Jack cheese

Grate potatoes, onions and place in 1 1/2 qt. casserole dish. Mix sour cream, cottage cheese, and 1/2 of Jack cheese, blend well adding salt near end. When blended pour over potatoes mix well so mixture is coating potatoes, smooth top and sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake at 350 degrees till a pretty brown crust forms about 45 min. Serves 8.

A family tradition

Judith Gray's "Mincemeat Bars" became a "family traditional around the holidays," when her mother would whip up a batch to the delight of Judith and her brothers and sisters.

She doesn't make them often herself, neither her husband or daughter is particularly fond of mincemeat, but she remembers them for special occasions like the Times' recipe contest.

Judith is an English teacher at Hillview Junior High School in Pittsburg. The commute between her San Ramon home and her work doesn't leave her much time for cooking, but she does have a few specialties like chicken paprika.

Mincemeat bars

This chewy mixture of oatmeal and mincemeat for "Mincemeat Bars" won Judith Gray of San Ramon second place in desserts.

MINCEMEAT BARS

- 2 cups uncooked oatmeal (do not use instant)
- 1 3/4 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 1/2 cups moist mincemeat

Put oatmeal in a mixing bowl. Add flour, soda, and sugar and thoroughly mix by hand. Cut in shortening until dough is crumbly. Divide into 2 parts. Pack 1/2 of the mixture firmly in the bottom of a 7 1/2 by 11 inch greased baking pan. Spread mincemeat evenly on top of packed dough, then add remaining dough and pack firmly. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Cool thoroughly and cut into bars.

Art and food

By DAN GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jill Gardner says her pastry art exhibit featuring cookies baked with broken glass and such delicacies as "Hot Gross Buns" is "all about attraction mixed with revulsion."

"Some people might say this is about American eating habits, some might say it's about sexual frustration," said Miss Gardner, 21, whose "How Sweet It Is Emporium" opened Wednesday at the Kansas City Art Institute where she is a student.

"There is a lot of me in it — sex, art, childhood," she said. "That's a great thing about it. I get to play with my food and call it art."

The show is set up to resemble a bakery. Among items for sale are Crepes, rolled rubber discs containing vaseline, glue, toothpicks and matches, and looking like crepes. A collection of crescent rolls has newspaper clippings, steel wool and rubber bands among its ingredients. Viewers can be teased by Nitty Gritty Dirt Bread — baked loaves of "whole earth" gravel, straw and mulch; and Dredzels — glass-filled pretzels.

"People see these cookies with glass and needles and nails sticking out, and their first feeling is wanting to eat them, even though they know they're dangerous," Miss Gardner said.

Her instructor at the institute, Hugh Merrill, said the show "is aggressive ... well done in a fertile area of taking an everyday object, basically defenseless ... and transforming it into something obnoxious, lethally dangerous, causing the viewer to focus in on things they take for granted, such as what may be called women's work being examined by women."

Miss Gardner put on her first one-woman art show in 1975. But the pastry exhibit represents a bizarre new step.

"It was just an experiment in basic dough. Like being a mad chemist," Miss Gardner said. "I set the kitchen on fire twice ..."

Although many of the items are inedible, some are tasty even though they look repugnant. There are heart-shaped cookies appearing to drip blood, and gingerbread figures sporting peg legs.

Those who have seen it so far, Miss Gardner said, have shown "a little negative reaction, although my mother looked at it and said, 'Weird, Jill, weird.'"

GIRTY CATE'S MISTAKE CAKE

- STEP I
- 2 cups sugar
 - 3 eggs
 - 1 1/2 cups salad oil

STEP II

 - 3 cups flour
 - 2 teaspoon soda

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinamon
- Sift these ingredients together
- STEP III
- 1 no. 2 can crushed pineapple, undrained
 - 2 cups grated raw

- carrot
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 cup candied cherries, cut up

1 cup flaked coconut cream sugar, eggs and salad oil. Into creamed mixture blend flour, soda, salt and cinnamon. Add all of the ingredients listed in step 3. Mix well, but do not overbeat. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 hours. Or until done.

Can be baked in two, 9 x 13 inch pans or one tube pan and one 9 x 9 pan. The sheet pans take less baking time.

The story I was told on the creation of this cake was as follows: Girty was mixing two cakes at one time, and got the ingredients mixed up, so was going to throw them out and start all over. Her daughter told her just to mix everything together and the result was a delicious cake.

(This came from near Odessa Texas).

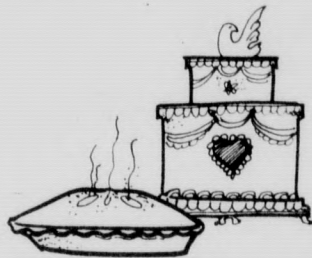

I like to ice this cake with the following icing.

- 1 small pkg cream cheese
- 1/4 stick margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 1/2 cups powdered sugar

Mix all ingredients well. Spread frosting over cooled cake.

 - 1 teaspoon baking powder (use if not using self-rising flour)
